THE SEDDONIAN

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

We are now approaching the end of our second year of occupation of the new College site at Western Springs. It may be profitable to take stock of the present situation.

The four "prefabs" which we acquired as soon as we moved in last year are still with us and are likely to be for some considerable time. We can, however, look forward to some relief with the construction in the near future of another clothing room and a new self-standing two roomed library. I am happy to report, too, that the erection of a gymnasium is a step nearer. After many months of frustration and of disappointment that the Government would not provide all the funds for a gymnasium, it has been decided to use Memorial Library funds for a Memorial Gymnasium. It is confidently expected that building operations will commence early in the new year.

The development of the grounds of the College has been disappointingly slow. One reason for this has been the difficulty of delineating the boundaries of the school area. This happily has now been resolved and the Board of Governors is hopeful that the next stage of development of the grounds will be undertaken by the Ministry of Works without undue delay. Many of us believe that much more progress should have been made on grounds development in our two years of occupancy of the area. Tree planting has been on a very small scale and to a great extent unsuccessful.

Buildings, grounds, equipment - These are the outward, physical side of the school. They are gradually being improved; but what progress have we made in other directions? Have we matched our new buildings with a new zeal to work to capacity so that we are fully equipped to undertake what lies ahead of us? Have we made proper use of the wonderful facilities for education that our school presents? Have we contributed to the corporate life of the school by participating willingly and cheerfully in its activities?

Have we practised learning to live with others by co-operating to the full with our school mates and with our teachers? Many will be able to give an affirmative answer to these questions. They are the ones who will derive real benefit from their attendance at Seddon. But there are still some pupils who do not profit by their schooling because they do not allow themselves to do so, indifferent as they are to the opportunities for education held out by their colleagues and their teachers. They have not learned that to receive they must give.

Fortunately these people are in the minority and I am happy indeed with the fine working spirit shown in the senior forms this year. Pupils here have toiled both manfully and purposefully and have set a good example for others to follow.

STAFF NOTES

MEN'S STAFF NOTES

By 1965, the dust had been settled, and with no cadet week at the beginning, we were away to a swift start.

During the year Messrs. H.C.L. Meijering, H.H. Bernhardt, K.A. Sands and H.W. Matthews left us while Messrs. J.H. Tindle, J.E. Parry and K.S. Patterson joined the staff.

In the second term Mr. M.W. Lawrence attended a course at Wallace House for heads of technical departments while Messrs. H.W. Beale and C.W. Hicks attended a P.P. Administration Course at King's College. Messrs. D.L.F. Jones, L.W.A. Ronald, A.F. Clarke and K.S. Patterson are involved with university studies and we wish them every success.

Mr. J.W. Price, who was ill for some months, pleasantly surprised us by his return after Labour Weekend, diminished in girth, but renewed in vigour.

To Mr. M.W. Lawrence, who also has had a recent stay in hospital we wish a complete recovery and better health in 1966.

And now it is time to join the ladies!

WOMEN'S STAFF NOTES

We started 1965 with most of the worries of beginning at a new school behind us. We were prepared!

In February we welcomed Mrs. Bowler, Miss Dixon, Miss McKay, Miss Fehler and Mrs. Wright to our staff-room. P.A. to serve during the year, another very welcome addition, was Miss Kennerley.

Others to serve on the staff during the year were Mrs. Fair, Mrs. Tyson, Mrs. Wilson, Miss Newell and Miss Downes.

We regretfully began the year without Miss Gray, and sadly said goodbye to Miss Baildon at the end of the first term welcoming in her place Miss Prior. To Mrs. Lum, who leaves us at the end of the year, we extend our best wishes in her new position at Otara.

We have had a very eventful year, with four of our members off to Australia; several engagements and new cars. The year seems to have flown by.

A Tribute to

ALWYN MOON
Board Member - Justice of the Peace
President Past Students' Association

"From small beginnings came a great man."

Alwyn Moon who first became a pupil of Seddon in 1922 was destined to achieve eminence in sports administration, both locally and nationally, and to establish a reputation for tireless devotion to the welfare of his old school through the Past Students' Association.

At school Alwyn played cricket for the first XI, and, encouraged by his father, developed a lasting interest in athletics. After four years he left to join the staff of the Union Steamship Company and, at the time of his death, held a responsible post in the Outward Freights Department.

Athletics claimed much of his time and energy, his efforts being recognized in his election to life memberships of the New Zealand Amateur Athletic Association, The Auckland Amateur Athletic Association, and the Technical Old Boys' Athletic Club of which he was a foundation member.

Alwyn was Deputy Chairman and Director of the Organizing Committee for the British Empire Games in Auckland in 1950. His drive was largely responsible for the ultimate success of this venture. In 1956 the Auckland Amateur Sports Association sent Alwyn to Melbourne to investigate, and to see for himself, the organization and control of the Olympic Games, on which he made a full report. This year he had spent long hours preparing a case for Auckland's again acting as the host city for the 1970 Empire Games. He helped to create a common bond of interest among many amateur sports in the formation of the Auckland Amateur Sports Association of which he was still secretary.

As Chairman of the Committee organising the Golden Jubilee of the College in 1953, Alwyn was instrumental in effecting the revival of the Past Students' Association. He became the President in 1953 and was still in office at the time of his death on 12 October, 1965. His efforts guided the Association through the Diamond Jubilee celebrations in 1963.

In the words of Hector Bolitho - a distinguished old boy of the College -

"Alwyn showed astonishing unselfishness, vigour and charm. He had a rare talent for friendship. You will never know the affection I feel, not so much for the College, as for the Past Students, of whom Alwyn seemed the centre."

The highlight of his association with the College was his appointment in 1964 as the Past Students' representative to the Board of Managers. Only those who worked with him knew the value Alwyn placed on this appointment.

Death came to Alwyn without warning; his loss cannot be measured, but Seddon has just cause to be proud of the achievements of one of its most loyal and devoted pupils.

VALEDICTORY

Miss N. J. I. Gray B. A.

After the end of the 1964 school year we were unfortunate in losing the very great services of Miss Gray, Careers' Adviser for Girls. The pupils will miss a teacher who devoted herself with sympathy and understanding to the welfare of all girls in the school.

Miss Gray studied at the Auckland Teachers' Training College in 1938, and did a P. A. year at Ellerslie in 1939. Following a period of varied war appointments, Miss Gray taught at Otahuhu College for a number of years. She later went to Kowhai Intermediate, where she stayed until joining the staff of Seddon in 1958.

The loss to Seddon has been a very real one: the departure of a senior teacher with a wide experience of English and Social Studies, one thoroughly capable of handling work at all levels, from the lowest ability group to those sitting external examinations in English. We remember, too, her interest in Tennis and Basketball, and her willingness to supervise Saturday matches in these sports.

It was with regret that we heard of Miss Gray's protracted ill health this year. Pupils and staff wish her a complete recovery and a long and happy retirement.

S.M.T.C. PAST STUDENTS' ASSOCIATION

Over the past twelve months the Past Students' Association Executive has been considering ways and means of helping the new college.

Every year at the Reunion Church Service, the college choir helps and an effort was made last year to assist Mr. Wordsworth and the Music Department by providing some much needed instruments.

Several ideas have been put forward of a practical way in which we, as past students, could give to the present students, a gift of lasting value. The Annual General Meeting will consider these proposals, but meantime we are particularly anxious to obtain the names and addresses of all past students of the college. Will you assist, please? Send the names and addresses of any past pupils to the Secretary - Treasurer of the Past Students' Association, C/- 124 Elstree Avenue, Point England.

Your Past Students' Association should be a very large unit, but the Executive Committee is deeply disturbed at the lack of interest shown by so many past pupils.

Have you ever considered joining us? The subscription is 10/- for Seniors and 5/- for those under 19. The Association Badge cost 5/- . A Reunion is held annually on the first weekend in October - This usually takes the form of a Social Evening on the Saturday and a Thanksgiving Church Service on the Sunday Evening with the college choir participating. One other function, usually a slide evening, is arranged for the year. The Association entertains the School Prefects at morning tea in the third term and at present sponsors an Essay Competition for fourth formers. At the 1964 Annual Meeting the whole Executive Committee was returned to office unopposed - but they feel that a more active interest in the affairs of the Association by its members, who in turn could enlist the support of other past students, would lead to far better things.

The 1964/65 Executive comprises:-

President	Mr. Alwyn Moon
Vice President	Mrs. Aileen Gooder
Secretary-
Treasurer	Mrs. Joan Durbin
Committee	Mrs. Jean Speed, Mrs. Joyce Scott, Mrs. Janet Wallace, Mr. E.F. Jones, Mr. H. Ken Buckley, Mr. John J. O'Hara & Mr. Trevor Matuschka.

Having read this article, would you pass on the details to any of your neighbours or friends who are past students and forward to the Secretary the names and addresses of any others you know? You can expect to hear from us shortly.

ARAHU BASKETBALL CLUB

The year has been a good one for the Arahi Basketball Club. With six teams playing in the Auckland Basketball Association's Businesshouse Competitions, the Senior Team annexed the Auckland A Grade Championship for the ninth time in ten years and also won the Thelma Waters Cup for the highest goaling average for the season. The second team, playing in the Reserve Grade, finished fifth in the Grade; the third team, playing Senior B finished fourth; and the fourth team, were runners-up in the Second Grade.

Many players were selected as representative trialists and we are proud to report that our two Senior reps. were very useful members of the Auckland Team which finished third in the Dominion A. Grade Championships. One Senior Reserve player was chosen for that Grade and three player players from the Senior B Team gained representative honours.

We have been extremely fortunate in having the use of the Auckland Technical Institute Gymnasium for practices and the installation of lights at the Windmill Road Courts has provided additional practice facilities.

Players leaving school who wish to continue with their Basketball should send their names and addresses to Mrs. Joan Durbin, 124 Elstree Avenue, Point England. It is intended that "Get Fit" nights will commence in February. If you wish to become an Arahi Club Member send your name in as soon as possible after you leave school.

TECHNICAL OLD GIRLS' HOCKEY CLUB

The 1964 season was a very successful one but, the season just passed proved to be an even better one.

This year our ranks were swelled once again, thus enabling us to enter one more team (bringing the total number of teams to five) in the Auckland competitions. This support we find very pleasing and it is hoped that in future years the Club will continue to receive the same support.

Each team performed well, with notable achievements being made by three of them. The 2nd Grade team was co-winner in the Championship and winner of the 7-a-side. The 3rd Grade A team won both the Championship and the 7-a-side and the 3rd B team was runner-up in the Championship.

Once again we received a good representation in Auckland Rep. teams. We had four from the Senior grade, four from the 2nd Grade, eight from the 3rd Grade and three from the 5th Grade. Club spirit was again high, and this, coupled with the players' ability, made success a reality.

The season past was the last, at least for a couple of years, for Julie Crocker (Captain 2nd Grade team) as she and her husband are soon to leave for New Guinea where they will teach at a mission school.

It is with regret that we now mention the passing of one of the Club's Vice-Presidents, Mr. Alwyn Moon.

If you are interested in joining the Club when you leave school, please contact either:

President - Mrs. A.L. Gooder, 8 Lloyd Ave., Mt. Albert.	or Secretary - Miss D.H. Fleming Flat 3, 4A Dallinghoe Cres., Milford.

PREFECTS' DANCE

- 12th June, 1965.

The Dance this year got away to a rather slow start when, as the result of a misunderstanding, the band failed to arrive on time. Fortunately Mr. Wordsworth was able to produce a record player and the lack of 'live' music did not discourage many.

The dance was the first at which we used a backdrop for the stage and Mr. Sands with his art classes made this the feature of the ball. Sombreros, rugs, and posters around the walls helped to establish the Mexican theme.

Miss Goad, Miss Prior and their assistants provided a generous supper, and an item featuring an articulated bull, done by H. Appleton, R. Harrison, G. Lydiard, and Carol Cleaver was greatly appreciated.

A number of Prefects from other colleges attended and we look forward to seeing their schools represented again next year; we hope all at the dance enjoyed themselves and wish to thank all those associated with making it so successful.

THE SCHOOL CONCERT

The concert, the first to be had for many years, and the only one so far, to be held in our new buildings at Western Springs, went exceedingly well. It was performed on two nights, the 3rd and 4th August, and on both occasions the hall was filled to capacity with pupils, parents, and friends.

Staff and pupils alike worked hard for the success of the venture, giving up their free time to perfect their items, all of which were very well done. We were pleased to welcome on the Wednesday night, as our guest artist, Fia Chaplin, an old girl of the school, now an accomplished singer, well-known in the entertainment world.

The keynote of this year's concert lay in the variety of the items. Singing, dancing, acting, and instrumental music provided fine entertainment for all tastes. Backstage, in the music room, folk singers, in gay cotton frocks, giggled excitedly as they completed their make-up. Dancers, in dark green leotards, warmed up for their interpretation of the 'machine age'. Through their midst passed a group of junior boys heavily disguised as a TV panel. Finally came the cast of "The Crimson Coconut" in period dress, carrying the dinners for their restaurant 'set', and the all-important 'Bomb', guaranteed to turn a deep pink and produce a spectacular cloud of acrid smoke.

TALENT QUEST 1965

Entries wanted! Entries wanted! So began our 1965 Talent Quest.

The response was extremely good and the high quality of talent shown, was very much appreciated by the audiences. The heats were held and the winners went forward to the finals.

Excitement reigned supreme as the day of the finals drew nearer and this was intensified when the pupils heard that one of the judges was to be N.Z.'s leading guitarist, Peter Posa. The other two judges were Mrs. Maxted, a former teacher of the college, and Mr. Handlin, the Manager of a recording company. We considered ourselves very fortunate in this choice.

The winners received a thunderous applause as the judges' ruling met with unanimous approval.

The winners were:

Vocal Solo:	Yvonne Ngakuru
Vocal Group:	Anna and Maria Riggs
Instr. Solo:	John Williams
Instr. Group:	Ken Strong and John Stafford-Bush.

Our congratulations are extended to these successful competitors, especially to Anna and Maria, who were given the opportunity of recording their song.

We extend our sincere thanks to Mr. Wordsworth, who generously gave his time and energy in organising the whole affair, thus helping towards its success.

FORM NOTES

6 A

We modestly confess that complete domination of the intellectual and athletic fields is our only attribute.

6 B

Our form really needs no introduction. No words can fully describe our worth but, for the sake of immodesty, we give you these facts selected at random from our records. Three of our girls dominated the hockey team, four played tennis, and one supported the school in basketball. Four of the boys held the first XV together, and five others were the main striking force of the first Soccer XI. In summer sports the first cricket XI was lucky enough to have two of our number, while we all participated well in the swimming and athletic sports.

The smooth running of the school could not have been accomplished without our ten prefects. In the social events which took place this year our members all pulled their weight. We could list the names of all the important members of the class, but since we number twenty-four, and there are twenty-four important members, it will be easier if reference is made to the copy of the class register in the back of the magazine.

If P5 were poetic a "Rime" of its merits would be longer than that of the "Ancient Mariner". If again, they were put into novel form, it would be the longest, the most novel, novel ever written. As we are so limited in space, however our wings are clipped more than somewhat.

Our intelligence needs no recommendation. We will, therefore, concentrate only on our sports accomplishments here.

The team spotlighted by a school is, of course, the Rugby First Fifteen. In this team we were represented by four members: A. Jepson, M. Lee, W. Wike and the captain himself, J. Street.

Wayne Wike was also the Intermediate Athletic Champion, and is a likely candidate for the Senior Gymnastic Championship.

Seventy per cent of our class represented the school in Saturday winter and summer sport: the others attached themselves to the harriers.

Tn 5

Technicians 5 has certainly excelled in sport with Abercrombie, Blomfield, Ciprian, Jackson, Strong and Wolf gaining places in the swimming sports. Also Ciprian and Jackson represented us in the Inter-Secondary Swimming team.

In the Athletic Sports, Cox and Jackson both gained places with Mays winning the Senior 100 and 220 yards sprint, and gaining second place in the 440 yards.

Mays, Ciprian and Fakamau were members of the first XV. Burke, Ludlow, Upton, Jackson and Philpott were in the first Soccer XI, while in the first Hockey XI were Strong, Nana, and Mahoney. Burke, Fakamau and Jackson played in the first XI Cricket.

We were well represented in the Talent Quest with Ken Strong gaining first place in the instrumental section, and P. Jolly gaining second place.

D. Mays was the skipper of the college yachting team which entered for the Frostbite Championship.

R. Lawler came second in a cycle race to Thames, while Ciprian won the Auckland Junior Weight Lifting Competition.

If we do as well in School Certificate as we have in sport, it will have been a very good year!

W 5

This year Woodwork 5 has been successful in both sports and education. S. Tuivaiti was a member of the first XV, while B. Martin won the Intermediate Cross-country Race.

Our main concern, of course, is School Certificate. We have been worked hard by all our teachers, but we realize that this is the only way in which we may attain our goal.

The only boys to represent the school in summer sports were: W. Rodgers, S. Tuivaiti, B. Martin, and A. Tupuanga who have now left us. Three of our boys gained second place in the School Talent Quest. Our Class Sergeant this year was D. Lewis. All in all, this has been quite a successful year for Woodwork 5.

E 5

Our class Engineering V, consists of thirty pupils. We have had our share of pupils in different fields throughout the year. The following is an account of our achievements:

Running - 1st in fifth and sixth form relay. Neale - first in 100 yds A. grade. Goulton - runner up in Senior Championship, Shot Put and Discus. Ihaka - first in long jump.

First XI Cricket - Daji and Tuhega

First XV Rugby - Neale and Goulton

First XI Soccer - Nelson

First XI Hockey - Daji, Keeman, Maitland and Patel.

Auckland Star Art Exhibition - Tuhega, Cowan and Holmes

Talent Quest - Two groups entered - Leaso's Group ; Ihaka and Fuimoano. Neale played the drums for the Talent Quest Band

Concert Choir - Goulton and Neale

Our class has been outstanding in many events throughout the year, and on the whole have been jolly good sports.

P 4

The greatest form I've ever met,
P 4 would stand supreme.
We rank ourselves among the best;
We hold we are the cream.

The Beatles claim to be the most,
Their music is a feast,
Compared to them, the truth revealed,
We surely are the least.

In length of hair we can compete,
We peer thru locks dishevelled.
But when it comes to playing beat,
We must admit we're levelled!

But all in all I must proclaim,
This class is not a boast.
They truly are a brilliant lot,
You must admit the most.

Tn 4

A much disturbed class with the coming and going of pupils, and yet it managed to participate in many school sports and events including Saturday rugby, soccer, hockey, and cricket.

Trevor Lewis entertained at the School Concert, after winning first prize in his section of the Talent Quest. Also in our class we have five members of the School Choir who took part in a festival at the Town Hall.

Last, but not least, we wish success to the pupils who left during the year : Brian Dale, Nigel Edlin, Bruce Harriman, and Benny Scalabrini who was Deputy Sergeant. Replacing him we have Graeme Evans with Ray Lang as class sergeant.

4 Acc.

This year had been one of steady progress and consolidation. As a form we have achieved nothing outstanding, but a few individuals have excelled. Special congratulations must go to Helen McKenzie and Kim Shaw-Williams for winning the Literary Prizes donated by the Past Students' Association for fourth form essay competitions. In addition Helen also gained the Bronze medal for gymnastics, and Carolyn Lassen won an Iron Badge.

In sport several of the form have represented the school, and in particular mention must be made of Bruce Lowe who was a member of the all-conquering 5B Rugby fifteen. Bruce also ran for the school in the annual cross-country championship.

Finally the form congratulate Graeme Patterson for his portrayal of the sinister "bomber" in that breathtaking, powerful melodrama, "The Crimson Coconut".

E 4A

Here is a class which started the year with twenty-seven pupils, under the guidance of our form teacher, Mr. Martin. During the year eight of our members have moved on to the next stage of their careers. Five have started apprenticeships in various trades. Good Luck to them!

In outdoor sport this winter in Rugby and Athletics we have had a group of keen boys, some of whom have distinguished themselves. From the second fifteen we have Sonny Hona, David Yearbury, John Puleuka, and Tava Tangatataia.

This class is composed partly of hard-working boys, and partly of boys who have little competition in the volume of noise they make.

E 4B

The class has been most active on the sports field. The outstanding performance was undoubtedly by P. Dewhurst. Representing the school in the Inter-College Swimming Sports Peter gained two firsts, three seconds, and one third placing. Nevertheless, the remainder of the class have had an enjoyable year academically, and on the sports field.

Rugby: 2C team - P. Veli and P. George
4th grade - A. Maika and K. Vavaura
Soccer: P. Le Bas, A. Latoa and J. Brown.
Hockey: J. Hylton
Cricket: 5A team - K. Vavaura, A. Maika, L. Tulisi, J Hylton
Inter-Secondary Schools Cross-Country : J. Brown and P. Le Bas

W 4A

The roll for our form has remained around the thirty-eight mark. This year our form decided to change the Class Sergeant and Deputy once a week. Our aim was to give all class members a taste of leadership. It has, we feel, proved successful. While there may not be many academic geniuses among us we have been very active in other fields.

In school sports Lee Mulcahy was Junior Champion winning the mile, 440 yards, and breaking the 880 yards record. Wayne Sutton was first in the A grade 220 yards sprint. Our form gained first place in the Inter-Form Relay. The team comprised W. Sutton, G. Anderson, K. Bundock, R. Naysmith, and Lee Mulcahy. At the Inter-Secondary School Sports, held at Eden Park, Lee Mulcahy gained second place in the Junior 880.

W 4B

Our form has a roll of twenty-five pupils; that is, when all attend, which isn't very often. We are a mixed bag, with some who are very keen on sport (and quite good at it); and some who are keen on their school work, and quite good at that.

Our form master, Mr. Parkyn, who has quite a job with "us lot", still seems to manage to stay sane, and endeavours to teach us something. Our best subject seems to be Social Studies, and most of the class enjoy these periods.

We have two pupils in the class who are doing their best to out-do the Beatles with their hairdo. We are thinking of shearing them soon!

P 3A

We've been told we're not as good as some of the P 3A forms in the past because we haven't any brilliant athletes or sportsman and, perhaps, we haven't behaved as well as we should have done.

A few of the boys, Colin Buckley, Paul Irwin and J. Sawers have done well in athletics and Allan Havill, although he's a nuisance and gets the form into trouble, was outstanding at the swimming sports.

Very few played winter sports. Bruce Leaning was in the 5B Rugby team which won the 5B Championship, and Grant McInman, Roger Taberner, Keith Fisher and Rick Butler played Soccer for the school. Grant is also the 'brains' of the form but he has to watch out because one or two others are chasing him.

One good thing about us is that we started off as a not-so good form but we've got better during the year. That's better than starting well and finishing badly.

P 3C

As a third form class P 3C is well respected for its sports achievements. It won the Inter-Form athletic relay, and had Paul Wensor win the Junior Athletic Championship - a magnificent achievement. We also had Fred Jeanes who earned several places at the Inter-Secondary Sports.

Sately is our rugby hero, for he is the only third former to play for the first XV, which is a superb performance. Robert Coote, Steven Scott, Robin Banks, and Neil Warwick played in other school rugby teams. Next, but not least, are our soccer representatives. They are Brian Burnside, John Dalley, Tony Hulme, Paul Wensor, John Tonner, William Wilson, and John Probett.

The class combined well to provide a well-performed sketch in the school concert called "Off Screen". All the characters passed themselves off extremely well and portrayed their parts sincerely. Warren Anderson starred as a detective in the main school play in the concert.

We were all very sorry to see Mr. Bernhardt leave, for we all liked and respected him. Mr. Ronald stepped into his shoes and took over wonderfully. Our respect is growing for him. We are becoming accustomed to his ways, and wouldn't have anyone else.

T 3B

In our first year at Secondary School we have made more than favourable progress, and have excelled in promoting a class spirit. We have learned to use many different tools in Woodwork and Metalwork and have enjoyed making a variety of things. Our form has been a large one, numbering thirty-eight for most of the year, and although J. Farrell and L. Stephenson have shared the position of Class Sergeant it has been left to D. Haribhai to count hands for most of the year. In all school activities, both academic and sporting, the members of T 3B have participated enthusiastically.

T 3C

All the lads of T 3C
Are the best you'll ever see,
With uniforms all spic and span,
They are very keen to the last man.
Of our class captain we must boast,
At Athletics he's the "most".
Over half the class plays Saturday sport,
Cricket, Soccer, Rugby, and games of that sort
Our class teacher (who's left) was Mr. Sands
Now Mr. Parry has us in his hands.

PRETTY THINGS

5 A

5A has had a hard year's work with our final goal being School Certificate, we hope!

Our class has been well represented in Indoor Basketball, Basketball, Hockey, Dancing and Gymnastics, Athletics, and Tennis.

Helen McKellar was the star of our school play, and in the Talent Quest the "Saints and Sinners" were successful in being placed second in the vocal group section. Colleen Cook was also placed for her piano solo.

We have the pleasure of having four prefects in our class - Jill Mullins, Lynda Rea, Patricia Southan and Helen McKellar.

5 B

"Goodbye. We'll miss you. Good luck and all the best for your new job." This has been our theme song this year as our class has shrunk from 29 to 16 girls. We have said goodbye not only to classmates, but also to some of our teachers.

Although we have grown into a small class, 5B have remained a tough little group. In summer Jennifer and Wiki outshone their opponents in the swimming sports. On the athletic field individual conquests were made by Jennifer, Tosca and Siale, while the whole class ran to victory in the Inter-Form relay. Tosca, Frutty and Lita have played swift, strong, and sure in Saturday basketball, as well as Indoor,

OUR GOAL IS SCHOOL CERTIFICATE!

C 4A

C's for commercial in which we converse
O's for obedience at which we are worse!
M is for Margaret, at sports she is tops;
M is for music ( we only like pops).
E is for exams which the lot of us fear,
R's the result at the end of the year.
C is for Christeen, class sergeant again,
I's information which we don't retain.
A's for advancement when we pass a test,
L is for learning the work we like best.

4 is fourth form in which we take pleasure,
A is for always the memories we treasure.

4 B

Brush your teeth, comb your hair,
Wash yourself behind the ear,
Grab your books and rush from here,
Catch the bus to take you there.

Assembly first, it's hard to bear,
If you're late there is no chair,
Teachers sit above and stare.
You scratch your leg and comb your hair.
It's more fun when boys are there!

Shorthand first, which makes it worse
No one dares to converse,
In Social Studies it's all reverse,
In English, Helen complains of thirst.

C 4B at sports is the most,
But we never really boast,
Out on the courts we almost roast,
Turn red, then brown, the colour of toast.

Saved by the whistle, just in time,
Now we are forced to form a line.
We hold our breath. Will we do?
A sigh of relief, at last we're through!

BY ANY CHANCE?"

4 General

This year we started school with twenty-six pupils, but twelve have since left us, mostly to go to work. We wish these working pals of ours "Good luck and full pay packets".

Unfortunately we lost our Inter-Form basketball match, but we have talents in other directions, and the back of our form room is gay with contemporary paintings and pictures.

Congratulations to three of our class who obtained their gymnastic badges. They are Ella Lupo, Elizabeth Toso, and Lynette Nicholson.

3A 3A is Miss Dixon's despair;
There's none like us she does declare,
First there's Linda the class 'sarge'
who sometimes tries to keep us in charge.
And next comes Lloyd who does nothing but borrow saying "I'll pay you back tomorrow."
Phillippa or Pip I must next mention;
she spends all her time doing detention.
Michael's always spinning a tale
and if there's a chance he'll skip without fail.
Martin's the 'scav'
says "This and that I'll have."
As for Valerie, the threepenny piece,
we sometimes wish her giggles would cease.
Lorna certainly England is from
And so we have nicknamed her the Pom.
Lyll is an Eccle's fan
and imitates Eccles whenever he can.
Kent is an annoying imp,
but you can't hit him back since he's only a shrimp.
Lindsay can always put on an act;
sometimes she is quite funny in fact.
When Colin's a victim of some of our tricks,
he grins and then his hair he flicks.
And last there's me. It is a shame
but Professor Baldy is my name.

NH 4

In the first term of 1965 the school took part in the Intersecondary Swimming and Athletic Sports. NH4 was well represented in athletics by Yvonne Catterall and Telesa Willie, who competed with enthusiasm. Christine McLaren and Carol Cranch were competitors in the Swimming Sports and swam to the best of their ability.

In the middle of the term some of us went down to Meola Creek to look for frogs. While being very scientific about the whole thing, one of us took an unexpected dip, but all in the fun of it. At the end of the term, much to our dismay and astonishment, our dear friend, Miss Baildon, left us to get married. At the farewell party we held in her honour, there wasn't a dry eye in the house!

The second term brought new people and new ideas, and with them came our form mistress (already she is one of us). Next came the yearly talent quest. We had two groups entered, and one of them made the finals.

The third term brought the big indoor basketball tournament in which Telesa Willie and Yvonne Catterall once again represented the school: But this time, glory! We won the tournament, much to everybody's surprise.

C 3A

Our class - C 3A - is one of the larger classes of the school with thirty-seven pupils. Sophie Chong is our class sergeant with Beverley Liggins as her deputy. At the end of the second term one of our fellow pupils, Janet Storrie, left us to live in Australia, and in her place Heather Bell joined our form. Heather is a Canadian and has been entertaining us during our Social Studies class with talks on Canada.

During the year quite a few of the girls have taken part in sport and represented the school in Saturday and school games. Maree Lewis was the Junior Athletic Champion runner-up, and Sophie Chong and Diane Scarlett represented the school in the Hockey Match against Stratford. A great number of girls succeeded in attaining their Iron Badges for Physical Education.

C. 3B

C 3B is our class,
This finest you would know.
In exams we all pass;
Others we will show.

Anna and Maria had a singing test;
They learned the whole day through.
And finally they won the "Quest",
We congratulate them too.

Robyn's the best runner in our class;
Christine's our high jumper.
Mina's swimming is so fast,
It's very hard to beat her.

Our basketball team is the best,
Pei, Mary, Anna, Maria.
They beat all the rest
Helped by Maino, Fahe, and Mina.

Some of the girls we admire,
Maria Anna, Mary, Dale,
Sing for our school choir,
And often get a hail!

And now it's ended you will know,
When people come and see,
The best class in the school -
You'll know it's C 3B.

ART

NH 3

Although we have twenty-six girls in our form, we are better known in the sporting field as spectators than as players. We find this also in school music, as although some of us are in the choir we do not shine as solo performers. It seems that we work better as a team.

We are well known in the school for our cooking, but we notice that there is always a fire extinguisher kept beside the ovens lately!

3 General

Margaret Heenan, Mary Hohaia and Doreen Cecil play Saturday basketball. They have also the honour of playing against nearly all the visiting schools this year. Our No. 1 class basketball team also got into the finals of the Inter-Form competition.

Niro Bhula came top in our half-yearly exams, and she and Georgina Carson are leading in our good-grooming competition.

RUGBY FIRST XV

Back Row: P. Ciprian, D. Mays, H. J. Appleton, M. J. Ward, G. S. Hogan.
Second Row: A. Satele, T. M. Colman, Mr. S. C. Smart (Coach) R. Harrison, P. Neale, Front Row: M. L. Lee, A. B. Jepson, F. J. Street, M. Stevens, G. K. Lydiard, T. M. Hogan.
Absent: T. Goulton, S. Tuivaiti, B. Fakamau, J. Pou.

FIRST XV NOTES 1965

v. Northcote College: In this first game we lost narrowly 3 - 5. Our points came from a fine try by Lydiard. Jepson tackled well in the backs. Unfortunately, our captain and first five-eight broke his collar-bone during the game.

v. Onehunga High School: In a loose, scrappy game, played in the wet with both sides making many mistakes, we lost 6 - 11. Ward played well at full-back. G. Hogan kicked two penalty goals.

v. Lynfield College: The team was greatly improved, especially in the forwards. We sadly regretted the retirement of Stevens through injury. G. Hogan, whose play was outstanding in all facets of the game, landed a penalty goal and scored a try. Ward kicked a penalty. The game ended in a 9 - 12 defeat.

v. Rangitoto College: The atrocious conditions made constructive football impossible and the ball was kept in the forwards for most of the game. Satele and Fakamau produced some strong runs and two of these resulted in tries. Other points came from a try by Lydiard and a penalty by G. Hogan. We won 14 - 6.

v. Rutherford High School: A narrow defeat 12 - 16, due mainly to poor tackling by the backs in the opening stages. The team soon settled down and entertaining football resulted. Lydiard played gamely, setting the backs in motion with intelligent play. Our points came from a try by Mays and three penalties by G. Hogan.

v. Pakuranga College: Again conditions were unfavourable and we went down 13 - 3. Ward was always safe at full-back while Appleton shone in the forwards.

v. St. Paul's (practice): The team quickly adapted themselves to the greasy conditions and the forwards proved far superior to the St. Paul's pack. T. Hogan's heeling was a treat to see. Harrison, on the wing, showed great courage and was rewarded with a fine try. G. Hogan added to his tally with a try, a conversion and two penalties.

v. Northcote College: Conditions were very muddy but the team functioned well. Strong tackling by the backs and some deceptive runs by Wike were the main features of the game. A 3 - 18 defeat was no disgrace.

v. Onehunga High School: Seddon chose to run with the ball when it should have been put in the air and this was our downfall. Mays, who had moved into prop, played a useful game and Stevens, as usual, revelled in grounding the opposing inside backs. We lost 3 - 17.

v. R.F. Cadets, Waiouru: This year we travelled to Waiouru. We led 8 - 6 at half-time, but their heavier forwards, playing with the wind in the second half, began to get the edge on us and the game ended in an 8 - 27 defeat. Goulton's lineup work was outstanding.

v. Lynfield College: Playing with renewed vigour, we were in Lynfield territory for much of the game and were rewarded with an 8 - 6 victory. Coltman's bursts from the lineouts were done in true 'All Black' style. J. Pou and D. Mays made a very solid front row. G. Hogan scored points from a converted try, Ward scored a penalty.

v. Rangitoto College: An icy, gale-force wind prevailed during the whole game. This caused the ball to stay in the forwards for most of the match. Lee was off the side of the scrum like the proverbial bullet. We lost narrowly 0 - 3.

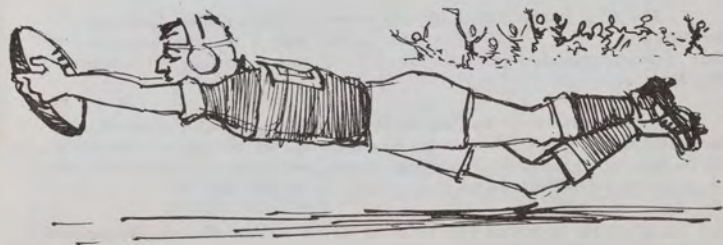

v. Rutherford High School: We were very unlucky to lose this one 0 - 9. Conditions were ideal and, as a result, open football was witnessed. Neale, resuming play after a long spell, gave an immaculate display off the side of the scrum. Ciprian showed that he was improving with every game.

v. Stratford High School: This is an annual event and a climax to our football season. Defeated last year, we were out for revenge in this game. It was played in very wet conditions and the ground was quickly reduced to a mud-pool. The outcome was in doubt until Stratford scored two quick tries ten minutes from the end. The forwards rose to great heights that day and Tuivaiti was often prominent with his side-stepping and weaving. The game ended in a 6 - 14 defeat.

v. Pakuranga College: The team did not play well at any stage and were defeated 0 - 6 in a scrappy game.

v. Kaipara College: After leading 3 - 0 at half-time, we thought victory was ours, but they swamped us in the second half to win convincingly 14 - 3.

On this note the season ended. We wish to thank Mr. Smart, our coach, for his efforts during the season. Our thanks, also, to Mr. Lee, Mr. Hicks, friends, parents and the afternoon-tea experts who supported us throughout the season.

2 C RUGBY NOTES 1965

The 1965 2 C team attacked this season with great spirit and determination, neither of which diminished in the slightest throughout. It is not surprising, therefore, that no dismay was felt at the results, which were not ones to inspire confidence.

Nine losses and one win by default could be expected to cause a team to lose heart, but this was not the case. Every Saturday there was a full team, with reserves, and at the end of each game the boys were always in high spirits, laughing and looking forward to the next Saturday's game. It was a team in the true sense of the word.

Sonny Hona, our captain and half-back, kept the team playing very well and, towards the end of the season we were really getting into form and running our opponents very close.

For his part, Sonny deserves a great deal of credit as does our coach, Mr. Wordsworth, who consistently raised our hopes and cheered us on in all weathers.

We hope that 2 C in 1966 will show the same spirit and add lustre to the record of '2C' and 'Tech'.

3RD GRADE RUGBY NOTES

In all, a successful season with six wins, five losses and a score of 97 points for and 80 against.

We were sorry that our vice-captain, Ihaia Kake, had to leave us part way through the season but we were very happy with the coaching of Mr. Jones and grateful to him for the time he used in training the team.

The regular team consisted of: J. W. Horsnell, (capt), D. Wolf, P. Lutuiloa, H. Teavae, L. Fuimaono, W. Knight, T. Numanga, P. Rogers, M. Ponga, K. Bundock, V. Mauff, D. Lindsay, J.P. Anderson, W. Magologo, J. Tuhega, D. Walker, A. Cowan.

4A RUGBY NOTES

The first game played by this team against Lynfield College, resulted in a 14 - 0 win. However, it was only a practice game and in our first competition game we lost a close and enjoyable encounter with St. Paul's.

Unfortunately, it was not until the last competition game of the season that we gained our next win. Although we had more than our share of losses, the games were always closely contested and enjoyed by all. Against Kaipara College we had a runaway victory 32 - 0.

The team was ably captained by Rex Harrison who was supported by David Campbell and Des Wilkinson.

5B RUGBY NOTES

The 5B Rugby team has had a very good season winning the 5B Grade Championship, scoring 224 points and conceding only 42 against. This was due to the co-operation of all members of the team and to our coach, Mr. Clarke.

The forwards played well throughout the season with good line-out work by M. Fraser, C. J. Sommerville and B. Leaning. Hooker, J. Stafford-Bush, has been ably supported by the props, P. Alesech, W. Statham and G. Rogers, while M. Millane, B. Hariman and W. Clarke were all good loose forwards. K. Allan was a speedy little half-back with C. Pearson a utility back. R. Banks, B. Lowe, S. Stavrianos and R. Andrews have made good use of the ball and Andrews, in particular, has been an outstanding goal-kicker. A. Ross at full-back can be relied on to play a steady game and provide sound cover defence. Last, but not least, J. Murray has ably captained his team on all occasions.

The team would like to thank Mr. Hicks for his keen interest and for arranging many important games.

6A RUGBY NOTES

Taken all round, the team had a very enjoyable season.

Unfortunately, owing to sickness and injury, it was only rarely that we were able to field a full team. On those occasions we played well and though we had no wins the scoring was very close.

Towards the end of the season the backline, with Brooker and Parkin as five-eighths, was starting to function well, taking the initiative on many occasions. Hooking by Edwards was always good and a little more speed in getting the ball back might have made all the difference between defeat and victory. Coote at full-back and Bridger at centre were always prominent on defence.

SOCCER NOTES

The 1965 season has been a profitable one. All teams enjoyed a fair measure of success and the players themselves derived great pleasure from their games. In the past our players have tended to be a little slow in going for the ball, but this year it was pleasing to note the confident manner of Seddon boys, who were prepared to challenge for the ball.

FIRST XI SOCCER

Our team played in the Senior B competition. Few 1964 representatives were available but some new players from Fiji aroused interest when the team came to be selected with Evan Burke as its captain.

In the first match we played against the stronger of Rutherford's two teams in the grade. Taken completely by surprise, we lost 1-5. Our opponents, who played fine football, were later transferred to the A section.

Dismayed but undaunted, we next faced Kelston, who also possessed players of high calibre. A very even game was lost 1-3.

Fortunes changed when, against Grammar, a fantastic goal by Hakitene from a high, bouncing ball gave us a 3-2 win; the game against Rutherford's second team in part eased the sting of our first defeat; Henderson held us back for a while and then wilted to let us score freely; and Mt. Roskill conceded a large number of goals.

The pattern now emerged: the attack was based on Singh, centre, and Prasad, left wing, with other forwards foraging and feeding, and seldom scoring. Evan Burke, centre-half, Bruce Graham and Brian Laurance at full-back were the core of the defence. In some positions where several players had equal claims, boys sportingly had to stand down for the sake of the team or to give others a turn.

Wet weather or sickness among our opponents spoil the second half of the season, either the grounds being closed or other teams defaulting. Against Grammar we lost 1-2, but we beat Rutherford again by six goals.

Games outside the competition provided the season's highlights. At Waiouru the match against Regular Force Cadets was held in an icy half-gale. With the wind College scored six goals, and surprisingly, held their own against it to score two more goals.

Our Whangarei visitors, very successful in their previous matches, tried to play a short-passing game which was not very effective against our placing the ball over the heads of opposing backs, so with the wrong tactics, the Whangarei boys, who were the better players, allowed College to win 3-2.

INTERMEDIATE A SOCCER

The loss of some good players to the First XI weakened this team. Not until their fourth game, the one against Lynfield College, were they able to score freely and then they lost 4-6.

Against Northcote College they scored their first win; against Kelston they lost narrowly 1-2; and then they played the eventual competition winners to lose 1-4. The final match also against the champion side, Mt. Albert, was lost 0-1, proving that with a little better fortune our team would have had more successes.

The team then visited Kaipara College to end their season with a substantial win.

INTERMEDIATE B SOCCER

This team did not show a great deal of skill but it won a fair share of its games and had a great deal of fun at the same time. Its successes included substantial wins against Rutherford and Mt. Albert Grammar, while after 29th May, it was undefeated.

Over the last two years there has been a remarkable increase in the number of Pacific Island boys playing soccer and this team had the largest number.

JUNIOR A SOCCER

This team could be considered unfortunate. A defeat by Mt. Albert Grammar 1-2, which was wiped out later on by a 6-0 victory, was a slip which cost them a possible championship.

A great depth of talent made team selection difficult. The first selection was not the best and we only drew 1-1, with Westlake. The second game, on easy win, told us nothing, but the third game, which we should have won with ease, we only drew, after losing the initiative.

Kelston was soundly beaten 5-0, and then came the first defeat, by Mt. Albert. Against Lynfield we scored nine goals without reply, seven by Tonner Transport to Takapuna caused some confusion, and this somewhat upset the players, 0-2 down. Bad weather then forced the competition to end at the conclusion of the first round and Takapuna qualified for the final.

Westlake we defeated 3-1, and then Mt. Albert 6-0, an astonishingly high score.

Although disappointed at not winning the competition, the team were satisfied that they had performed well.

JUNIOR B SOCCER

This was probably the most interesting team of the year. From the beginning the players tried to play good football and it was fascinating to see a team of this standard pass the ball from forwards to half-backs, even to full-backs and goal-keeper to retain possession. Playing in this way, these boys cannot fail to develop into useful footballers.

The first game helped morale greatly when five goals were scored against Kelston. In the next one they were soundly beaten by Rutherford's first team, this being their first and last defeat.

Henderson, Grammar twice, Mt. Albert twice, and again Kelston - all went down to our team by varying margins.

CRICKET NOTES 1965

This year five teams, one more than last year, played on Saturdays, and on practically every occasion the teams have been up to full strength as well as being neatly turned out. This reflects the keenness of the boys involved.

Results show that the boys acquitted themselves well, but, what is more important, they have been enjoying themselves. We are confident that the enthusiasm will continue into the third term. Of the junior teams, the 6B team should receive a mention for winning outright every game played, only dropping points when weather cancelled out one game.

FIRST XI CRICKET

The hopes for a good season were raised when it was found that six of last year's team had returned. With A. Jepson as captain and E. Burke as vice-captain, the team was reasonably confident of giving a good account of itself.

The first game, against Rangitoto, produced excitement, dismay, and eventually joy when a first innings deficit was turned into outright victory. In two spells of bowling, C. Paice took two wickets with his first two balls and one with his first ball of the second turn at the bowlers' end. The whole game produced sound cricket from both sides with good fielding a feature of the play.

Our showing against Avondale was a great improvement on last year's. We gained a win on the first innings.

Pakuranga were out to avenge last year's surprise defeat. Although our bowling had improved, our opponents' batting was better, and we were defeated after batting one short in the second innings with one player sick.

The remaining games, against Penrose and Grammar, should produce interesting play. Let us hope we shall soon have a 1st XI pitch of our own.

3B CRICKET

This team was moderately successful with two outright wins (St. Peters and Avondale), a first innings win (Mt. Albert B), one draw (Mt. Albert A), and a first innings loss (Takapuna). Twenty points out of a possible thirty.

John Scott was a capable captain and was ably supported by his deputy, Jimmy Murray. S. Tuivaiti ran up scores of 57 and 42 with B. Fakamau also batting well and P. Kelly proving a steady, safe bat. B. Simeti, S. Tuivaiti, and B. Fakamau all bowled splendidly. In the game against St. Peter's, Fakamau took 5 for 20, and Tuivaiti 15 for 25. On the field Scott at wicket, D. Yearbury, P. Kelly, and J. Daji were prominent.

The team and coach wish to thank Mr. Yearbury, whose valuable help contributed greatly to the team's success.

5A CRICKET

This team soon gained a reputation for its willingness to chase runs. Our best matches were against Grammar. We scored an outright win over their 5B team. In this match a line of prefabs was made part of the boundary, and Addison, Tulisi, and Maika carefully avoided damaging these by sending their sixes right over the top. Grammar 5A were interested spectators, but three weeks later they tamed us a little by gaining a first innings win in a closely-fought match, this despite three glorious sixes lofted well and truly into Mt. Eden Goal by Langatuki and Maika!

6A CRICKET

We had a first innings win over Avondale, but against Mt. Albert and Mt. Roskill in harder matches we suffered first innings losses.

Probably the most interesting game was with Lynfield, who were out for 12 runs. In reply we scored 67 and felt well on the way to outright victory, but our opponents went on to score 108 in their second innings so that we had to be content with a first innings win. The last match of the first term, with Kelston saw good play on both sides, but we lost outright.

Team enthusiasm generally has been good but players tend to emulate one of the 'sloggers' when he scores a six so that they lose their wickets in the process. The captain upheld a fine standard of play and sportsmanship.

6B CRICKET

This team was very successful in the first half with four outright wins in all four games. Bowlers were the source of strength, Tawhai, Leaso, and Porowini often taking wickets for even runs. Tawhai took 38 wickets for 59, Porowini 17 for 33, and Leaso 17 for 39. Porowini was also best batsman, with 62 runs in 5 innings.

Results were: Mt. Albert 13 and 9, Seddon 27.
Lynfield 43 and 15, Seddon 55 and 4 for 0
Kelston 24 and 37, Seddon 21 and 83 for 6
St. Paul's 30 and 25, Seddon 76 for 5.

BOYS' TENNIS

This year the school was represented by a Junior and an Intermediate team.

The Junior Team was a fairly well balanced team, winning two matches and losing two. They surprised A.G.S. by beating them 5-4. R. Collingwood was the outstanding player winning most of his games.

Juniors:

R. Collingwood Capt.	S. Scott
J. Wong	A. Strickland
A. Spier	J. Ellis
J. Mumanga	J. Watt
S. Clarke	R. McNeill

The Intermediate boys were very keen, but were below the standard required for this grade and lost all their matches. However they were true sportsmen who lost gracefully to the better teams. R. Falanitule showed the most promise and went from strength to strength.

Intermediates:

R. Falanitule Capt.	S. Hona
P. Neale	B. George
W. Howlett	S. Fuimaono
N. Hemmingsen	G. Cox

FIRST XI HOCKEY

We started off the season fairly well in the first round, losing one game narrowly. By the end of the season we had won four games, lost two and drawn one.

The team comprised R. Nana, left wing; T. Lewis, inside left; J. Daji, centre-forward and vice-captain; T. Maitland, inside right; N. Hendren, right wing; J. Keeman, left-half; K. Strong, centre-half (captain); K. Mahoney, right half; R. Burgess, left-back; P. Patel, right-back; T. Santo, goalkeeper; reserves, M. MacNamara, B. Hardie. O. Daji assisted us in a few games.

During the season we had a visit from Whangarei Boys' High School and, playing on our own ground, we beat them in an exciting game.

Near the end of the season we went for a trip down to Taumarunui. The game was played the day after we arrived and resulted in a decisive win for the home team. After the game some of us went for a trip up Mt. Ruapehu and, for a number of us, it was the first contact with snow. We returned the next day.

We would like to thank Mr. Brown, our coach, for helping us so much and making the season such a good one.

4A HOCKEY

The team completed a quite successful season by taking second placing in their competition.

Out of seven games played they won four, drew two and lost one. Goals were scored by O. Daji 14, J. Tawhai 5, B. Jobson 2 and B. Daji 1.

Those who made up the team were: O. Daji, (capt), L. Watts, (vice-captain), J. Mathie, B. Daji, J. Tawhai, C. Marsai, J. Andrews, R. Blomfield, B. Jobson, J. Follington, J. Hylton and P. Waring.

COLLEGE STEEPLECHASE

The race was held on 23rd September in excellent weather conditions which lasted until the race was over and then changed to rain.

An innovation this year was the running of the three grades over the same course simultaneously but arranging for each group to have its own officials at the finish. This arrangement was an improvement and avoided the overlapping of the races which had complicated matters the previous year. The new system also gave an opportunity for comparing the relative ability of the three groups and it was clear that the Intermediates were running very close to the Seniors.

A fit and determined R. Vaughan made sure of victory by going to the front at the start and giving no-one a chance to get near him. His performance was outstanding even after allowing for the fact that his strongest rivals were lacking in fitness. Neither R. Jackson nor M. Stevens, who were expected to be at least in hailing distance at the finish, provided anything resembling a challenge. Cole ran well to be the third man home.

B. Martin proved to be better on the day than L. Mulcahy and both were well up amongst the Seniors at the finish. These two Intermediates put up very good performances and Bruce Lowe ran well up to form to finish third.

The Juniors almost invariably supply the greatest interest because this is usually the first time that a large number of them have taken part in a long-distance race.

G. McRae, whose brothers had shown interest, but not a great deal of talent, as harriers, won the Junior event quite well. There was little to spare, however, from Simons and S. Scott who came second and third.

An inter-house competition held on the race resulted in the following results.

House Results

SENIOR		INTERMEDIATE		JUNIOR
1. Wellesley	1276 pts.	Binns	1501 pts.	Wellesley	1975 pts.

The overall winners were Wellesley with 4112 points.

HARRIER NOTES - 1965

This year the college Harrier Group, under the supervision of Mr. Newnham, took on a new lease of life. After an initial grading run three packs were formed to cater for runners of different fitness. Those in the fast pack ran a three mile road circuit while the other packs ran around the lower sports field. The results of these races provided a basis for the first of a series of handicap road races in which all Harriers took part.

In the College Cross-Country fitness showed as members of the Harriers gained first place in the senior and junior events, and second in the intermediate event. Harriers who made their way into the college team to run at the Inter-Secondary School Cross-Country Championships were: G. Cole, G. Macrae, L. Mulcahy, J. Sawyers, R. Vaughan.

Other Harriers who showed promise during the season were: N. Edlin, P. Jamieson, R. Kent, W. Maddren, H. Moore, S. Murphy, R. Olive, B. Roberts, R. Sadgrove, R. Taylor.

The Cross-Country

The pace is killing, so it seems;
I didn't expect this in my wildest dreams.
The mob in front are still going strong;
I'm sure they can't keep it up for long.
Over the footpath beside the zoo;
I'm sure I've worn a hole in my shoe!
Now here we are at the school grounds again;
Oh why on earth can't it rain?
Through the streets on the course we plod;
The boys on the checkpoints have the best job.
At the tape the school's out to cheer;
And now it's all over until next year.

A. Rickett, P5.

INTER-SECONDARY SCHOOLS STEEPLECHASE

St. Kentigern's College provides a very suitable venue for these races and it seems to have become accepted that the races should be held there annually.

On 2nd October the weather was fine but with a strong breeze and the ground was dry with the stock tracks providing rough footing which was a menace to ankles.

Our team in the Junior race began a little slowly. Perhaps they were being too modest about their own ability but after half-a-mile the leading Seddon runner was well back in about twenty-fifth place. At the end of the first lap, it was seen that matters had improved. Manning had moved up to eleventh and the next three of our boys were fairly well bunched about ten places behind him. At the next check point, almost half-a-mile from the finish, the three bunched runners had improved to be separated from Manning by only one other runner. In the race to the line Simons moved up about eight places to finish sixth, McRae and Scott moved up a couple of places, while Manning allowed only his teammates to pass him.

It was an excellent performance for our four runners to finish in the first thirteen places, and it took an exceptional performance on the part of Westlake Boy's High School to gain first team place ahead of Seddon. Watson and Sawers came in well leaving a large number still struggling behind them.

Both the Senior B and Intermediate B races were won in better time than that returned by the winners of the A races. In the Intermediate B, B. Martin had to withdraw after one lap leaving us much weaker than we had expected to be. L. Mulcahy, however, ran much more solidly to finish in seventh place after being well back at the early stage, but the most improved performance came from P. Le Bas. Brought in as extra man when a presumably better runner could not compete, Le Bas was a long way back at the beginning but made up leeway in determined fashion to be our second man home. B. Lowe and J. Brown completed the team to count and Findlay came in a few yards behind Brown. The points score placed our team about half-way down the list of sixteen schools.

With only five of the Senior team facing the starter, we had only one reserve. As luck would have it, both R. Jackson and J. Scott injured their ankles on the first lap. Jackson had to withdraw, but Scott, displaying great courage, when every step must have been painful, limped round the second lap to complete our team.

R. Vaughan ran a well-judged race. He was not foolish enough to try to foot it with the formidable K. Harvey and the leading group, but stayed a little way behind them on the first lap, gradually working his way up through the field to finish in eighth place. This was a fine improvement on his showing last year and was the best performance by a College runner for a number of years.

B. Cole ran as well as his best to finish ahead of M. Stevens who completed the College team.

A very good day for the college and something of a record was created. It was the first occasion that a College team had gained a place in the first three teams.

The College was well served by the staff, no fewer than five members being present.

COLLEGE ATHLETIC SPORTS

The number of competitors entered for this annual event was, once more, so large that an extra day was required for heats.

With the long jump and high jump being held on the same ground as the track events there was less dispersion of officials and competitors than there was last year.

In both girls' and boys' events there were competitors of outstanding merit especially amongst the Juniors. Margaret Cole in the girls' section gave an excellent display of sprinting and her performance was equalled by that of P. Wensor in the boys' short distance races.

The inclusion of 'grade' races continued for the fourth year and was again responsible for revealing some unsuspected talent. It is a pity that full use is not being made of the training facilities during the summer months. There is plenty of opportunity for pupils to use the track before school, after school and during lunch times, but few do so and a great deal of time is being lost when it could be used to raise the standard of athletic performance.

Most effort needs to be aimed at improving techniques in jumping events. The styles of long-jumping, high jumping and hurdling are generally poor and little effort is made to use modern methods.

BOYS' INTER-SECONDARY SCHOOLS ATHLETICS

It was a fine day on 3rd April from the point of view of the weather and from the point of view of achievement by College athletes .

The Juniors performed particularly well and were only beaten by the school which won the junior relay. P. Wensor was successful in winning both the 100 yard flat and the 100 yard hurdles. A poor start in the 220 yards almost certainly cost him a placing in that event also. He was not alone in bringing the College colours into prominence because F. Jeanes in the long jump, P. Ewing in the Shot Put, L. Mulcahy in the 880 yards all gained second placings. The only disappointing feature of the day was the lack of support from the remainder of the College. There were loud cheers to welcome the announcement of winners or placegetters from almost every school, but the names of the College winners were received with silence.

Both the senior distance runners, M. Stevens and R. Jackson gained starts in the final of the mile and Stevens was also in the field for the 880 yards. W. Wike was successful in heats and semi-finals of the 100 yards and 220 yards but was unfortunate in the finals. M. Moore reached the final of the Intermediate shot put and J. Sawers reached the semi-final of the junior 440 yards. Trevor Levin ran three good races and was by no means disgraced in the final of the 100 yards hurdles. For a boy who has also represented the College in the steeplechase this was a display of versatility.

It is to be hoped that the performance of the College team is a sign of a revival in the Athletic standard of the pupils.

"SUCH A LOVELY BUNCH OF KIDS SIR. I'LL NEVER FIND ANOTHER LOT LIKE THEM - I HOPE."

GIRLS' INTER-SECONDARY SCHOOL ATHLETICS

Seddon scored a hat-trick at the Inter-Secs earlier this year when our outstanding sprinter, Margaret Cole, ran off with all the Junior sprint Championship events.

She won the finals of the 50 yards, 75 yards, and 100 yards events, after previously winning all her heats and semi-finals.

Although it rained intermittently and the track was greasy, our other runners also did well. Maree Lewis ran in the semi-finals of the Junior 100 yards. Intermediates Christine Cahill and Brenda Ricketts gave creditable performances, Christine running well in the 100 and 75 yard events, and Brenda coming 2nd in her heat of the hurdles.

In the senior section Wai Timoko gained 3rd place in the shot-put and 2nd place in the discus. Telesa Willie also took 2nd place in the intermediate shot.

All in all it was an excellent day's athletics and it placed Seddon well up in the Schools' Competition at the end of the sports.

INTER-SECONDARY SCHOOLS RELAYS

It is a long time, about four years or more, since the College was represented in the relays and the entry this year was in keeping with the greater interest in sport of all kinds which is being shown by pupils of the College.

The setting at Rutherford High School was excellent. Conditions were fairly good and the track was extremely dry in comparison with the state usually experienced at this time of the year.

The College struck the right note at the start when the Juniors won the 4 x 110 yard relay. The relay runners held their own with the opposition so that the anchor man, P. Wensor, was able to gain the extra yards needed for victory, incidentally in a time faster than that of the 'A' Grade. At the same time, the Junior shot put was in progress and our three boys were good enough to gain first place in that event also.

The next win was the 4 x 220 yard event. The consistently high standard of our boys kept them with the leaders during the first three stages so that, once more, P. Wensor had a task well within his power.

Perhaps the most exciting event was the 3 x 110 yard hurdle race. The first runner, B. Nesbitt was in third place, close to the leaders at the first changeover. C. Buckley jumped well to move up to second place but it seemed that the fourteen yards he was behind the leader was too big a handicap for our last man to make up. It was then that P. Wensor showed what he could do under pressure. Hurdling beautifully, he gradually reduced the lead and went over the last-but-one hurdle on even terms to give his opponent no chance at all over the last few yards. An excellent performance.

In the medley relay, with J. Sawers running the quarter-mile and W. Clarke the 220 yards, both boys ran above themselves for Sawers to gain the lead and Clarke to retain it. P. Wensor took the first 110 yards to give a four-yard lead to Jeanes and he was never in danger of defeat.

The whole Junior team of P. Ewing, B. Nesbitt, C. Buckley, T. Wallwork, F. Jeanes, P. Wensor, J. Sawers, K. Fisher, W. Clarke have reason to be well pleased with their performance.

The Seniors, to their credit, overcame the handicap of small numbers to win the shot put and boys with no great claim to fame as athletes took part in all events to gain points for the College.

The Intermediates were struggling hard all the time, but at least they fielded a full team in all the track events.

It is indeed a great pity that the College could not field its best athletes. The result could quite easily have been an overall points win.

SWIMMING SPORTS 1965

A scorching day, plenty of enthusiasm and a barracking crowd, made this year's annual swimming sports, held on 25 February at the Olympic Pool, a spectacle of delight and excitement.

Congratulations go to all winners and our thanks to those who entered, but were unsuccessful, because without them there would not be any sports at all.

GIRLS' INTER-SECONDARY SCHOOL SWIMMING SPORTS

The Girls' Intersecondary School Swimming Sports were held at the Olympic Pool on the 4 March 1965.

Seddon this year was more successful than in other years, with C. Cranch gaining a 1st & 2nd place and V. Southan gaining a 3rd place, in their respective heats. M. Cole was very successful in gaining 2nd place in the final of the Junior Dive.

All girls had a successful and enjoyable day, and would like to extend to Mrs. Bowler their sincere thanks.

BOYS' INTER-SECONDARY SCHOOL SWIMMING SPORTS

This year's Inter-school team was not outstanding, but all competitors put up good times, particularly our Junior boys.

Havill, P3A, came 4th in the Junior 55 yds Freestyle final and 5th in the Junior 55 yds Backstroke final. Edwards, P3B, came 4th in the Junior 55 yds Backstroke final. The Junior relay team - Havill, P3B, Edwards, P3B, Watson P3B and Yates Tn4 - won their heat and came 3rd in the final, a good result after a very close finish.

Ciprian Tn5, gained 4th place in the final of the Intermediate Boys 55 yds Breaststroke.

BASKETBALL NOTES

Six teams were entered this year in the Auckland Basketball competitions played at Windmill Road courts. The Seddon teams were very pleased to find themselves in third place in the Uniform Competition, which is held every year on grading day.

It was not a successful year for the A team, but a number of other teams were more successful in their matches, particularly team 5, which did very well.

During the year basketball teams from Waiuku, Kaipara, and Stratford visited Seddon, and some of our teams visited Kaipara.

The game of the year was the match against Stratford. Both teams were evenly matched and played very well. During the second half, however, Stratford drew away from Seddon, and went on to win 11 - 8.

The teams wish to extend their thanks to their coaches, Mrs. Lum, Mrs. Davies, Miss Dixon (and also Miss Baildon, who, unfortunately, left at the end of the first term). The teams also wish to thank Miss Goad and the members of the Staff who gave up their Saturdays to cheer us on.

We were very unfortunate to be without our captain, Pat Smith, who was taken ill just before the Stratford game and did not return before the end of the season. Best wishes to Pat on her splendid recovery.

Inter-house Competition

Close competition over six rounds took place during the sports period on Thursday afternoons in the second term.

Result:

1st	Wellesley	11 points
2nd	Seddon	10 points
3rd	Hindley	9 points
4th	Binns	4 points

Inter-Form Competition:

These games at the beginning of the third term provided an exciting finish to the Basketball Season. Vociferously supported by their forms, C3B, C4B, and C5B battled their way through to win their respective grades. In the semi-final C4B were narrowly defeated 11-10 by C3B who in the final vanquished C5B 12-3.

INDOOR BASKETBALL 1965

We entered two teams in the Girls' Indoor Basketball Competition at the Y. W. C. A. this year. Although the teams were not as successful as in 1964, the girls all enjoyed their games.

Our most prominent player was Wai Timoko, Captain of the first team, who unfortunately left before the competition was finished.

Other members of the first team included Kathleen Brass, Wilma Davies and Christine Yallop (Vice Capt.)

Second Team: Pat Southan (Capt.), Beverley Hall (Vice Capt.) Yvonne Catterall, Eva Andrews, Mary Hohaia, and Elizabeth Toso.

GIRLS' HOCKEY NOTES

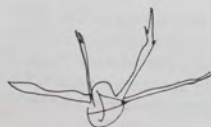

This season two teams were entered in the Hockey Competitions, one in the 'Intermediate B' Grade and the other in the 'Open C' Grade.

Although the girls played with great determination, they were narrowly defeated in the majority of their games. The 'Intermediate B' won two games this season and the 'Open C' three games.

This year the girls were graded according to their age and the first team was:
Goalie: Jill Mullins and Brenda Ricketts (Emergencies).

This year we entertained the visiting team from Stratford Technical High School. Our game against them was a memorable one as we were defeated by only 3-0, as compared with 17-0 last year.

Matches were also played against the Kaipara and Waiuku Colleges, the score being 5-2 and 3-1 respectively, in their favour.

The hockey girls wish to thank Mrs. Bowler, Miss Kennerley and Mr. Spiers for the time they put into coaching us. We also take this opportunity to thank teachers and fellow pupils who came along to support us on Saturdays.

GIRLS' TENNIS

This season two teams were entered in the Inter-Secondary Competitions held on Saturday mornings. The Senior team, as a result of their hard-earned victories in the 1964 season, were put into a higher grade, the Senior B, while the Intermediate team remained in the C. Grade.

Our opponents must have felt privileged to be playing on our new, black and white, polka dot courts, although at times it was hard to distinguish the ball from the white spots! This state of affairs turned the courts into quite a battle ground, as each individual strove to gain and maintain her hard-earned points.

Although in Term 1 our victories did not exceed our defeats, it has been a most enjoyable and satisfactory season. We look forward to the second round in the third term, and to our own Tennis Championships.

Fear Was My Enemy

The corridors of the train were filled with hustling people pushing and shoving in an effort to reach a vacant compartment. Gestapo men were moving slowly through the crowd demanding identity cards.

I was an English pilot fighter and I too was among the people about to be inspected. I could see the Gestapo men directly ahead of me. Their voices seemed to grow louder as they inched their way nearer to me and my apprehension increased. Could I deceive them with the false passport I had in my possession which really belonged to Pierre Dubots, a Frenchman? Fortunately I could speak French fluently, and during the few weeks I had been in the prison camp I had tried to assume the French accent of my prison mate, Pierre Dubots.

All too soon the Gestapo stepped in front of me and in guttural German demanded to see my passport. I could feel the perspiration pouring from my face as I reached into my coat pocket and pulled out the small piece of paper, which could mean for me either freedom or death. With an acute fear, but assuming as brave a front as possible, I passed it to him and as I did so I lifted my face and looked hard at him. I would not show him that I was afraid.

For what seemed hours I waited while the German stood amid the bustling crowd and stared intently at me and then at my passport. Was my plan of escape doomed to failure? The next few minutes would tell. Slowly his cold cruel eyes returned to my face and I was gripped by a great terror. My heart began to pound as thoughts of capture and death passed through my mind. Just as I felt I had reached breaking point, I heard an abrupt "Nachst!" (next please). I was handed back my passport. A great surge of relief passed over me and silently I uttered a prayer of thanks to God.

Although several days passed, and I experienced many moments of fear before I finally reached the safety of the border, I shall never forget those few terrifying moments when I stood in the corridor of that particular train and faced the Gestapo man, when my life depended on my ability to act and on that tiny scrap of paper - a French passport.

The Trap

To-day Sonja met the trap. To-day was to mark the big change in her feline life. Everyday she had walked past the bait-house, where it was concealed, smelling the delicious rabbit left there by the trapper. He wanted her fine, luxuriant pelt, which would bring a high price on the market.

But she was wary, and for a good reason. Even though the skillful trapper could make the set seem natural, he could not hide his own scent. For the lynx had a very keen nose, and she hated the man-scent which she and all her wild neighbours feared. So far she had not been caught. It was not to be so, for circumstances intervened.

The coldest winter she had ever experienced came down upon the land. One day she was at the point of starving, and could not resist the temptation of that delectable bait any longer. She padded around and around that set, trying to find another entrance. She crouched at the entrance, contemplating the danger. Leaning forward she snuffled up a few feathers. Choking and sneezing, she rattled the trap-chain. She bounded back in to the snow, with a scream of fear. With her eyes red with rage, she flung herself into the opening. She could see it coming alive, springing up at her as she touched the trigger. The metal horror clamped on to her right foreleg, and a wrenching spasm of pain ran through her body. Forgetting her hunger, she struggled, but the pain was so great that she stopped, and lay on her side in the snow. Sonja lay there all night.

The trapper came with the first light of dawn, striding along in his snow-shoes. She cringed, waiting for the blow that never came. The trapper had received an order from the Montreal Zoo for a live lynx.

The striking hand became merciful as she was carefully released, tied up, and placed on the trapper's hand-toboggan. A week later she was in the Zoo, where she lived for the rest of her days in complete heaven for she never had to hunt again. Later she was endowed with a mate, and she raised a fine family. Come to think of it, what more could a lynx want?

A Worm's Eye View of the School

I wriggled out of my house, quickly but rather scared about what I was going to face in the world above me. Gradually I began to smell the clean, fresh air, and I saw light. The first things I saw were lots and lots of huge buildings reaching for the sky. There were also lots of these things called humans running and jumping about the place.

"Funny creatures!" I said to myself.

Suddenly I heard a strange noise. Not exactly a whistle, but more like a siren. Then, without warning all the 'funny creatures' began running in different directions and suddenly everything was quiet and not a 'creature' was in sight.

"Something must have disturbed them," I said. "Just the way I get disturbed when I'm coming up for a visit and somebody stands on the earth while I'm still inside."

I decided to do a bit of exploring and so off I went. The first place I went, was to a building where I heard a lot of screaming and yelling, and thudding of feet. I peeped around the corner and was surprised to see lots of those 'funny creatures' I was telling you about running around in green and white clothing. Then a whistle was blown and 'they' all went and sat down on the grass. I decided I had seen enough of them, so off I went again.

That day I had learnt more things than ever before in my life. I found out that, by listening to some creatures talking, I was in a place called a school.

"Not bad!" I said and crawled back into my home.

SIXTH FORM PRIZE

The Emerging Nations

Geography, as taught in schools today, is becoming more complicated and involved than ever before. A century or so ago anyone who studied Geography or Social Studies would learn about Europe and North America for the major part of his studies. However, today, a student could learn about these countries and only half know the world he lives in. This is due to the emergence of many small nations around the world as they seek trade relations, political security, and education.

The areas in which this emergence has been most predominant are Africa, South America, and Asia. Whereas many of the countries in these areas were previously small outposts of large nations, they are now nations themselves, struggling to find means of increasing their income, and, at the same time, learn to govern themselves, educate their children, and keep at peace with themselves and the rest of the world.

The change in Africa has been predominant in international affairs for about the last ten years. Africa has been a centre of political unrest brought about by the gaining of independence, or attempts at gaining this by many countries such as the Republic of South Africa, the Congo, Ghana, Rhodesia, and Algeria. Thousands of United Nations troops have been flown or shipped into countries in this area in which the powerfully stable ruling hand of a great nation has been replaced by the fanaticism of an inexperienced, uneducated, and dictatorial government. After a number of years of violent strife and bloodshed, these nations are settling into peaceful existence, but in some it is only a matter of time before somebody else at attempts to alter the policies of the government by other than verbal means.

South America, on the whole, like Africa, has had its changes and troubled times, but recently attempts to overthrow the government of one of the countries, the Dominican Republic, resulted in world-wide headlines. One of the main causes of trouble in this area, especially in Cuba and the Dominican Republic, has been the system of government introduced. In many cases, as soon as independence has been gained, a party of men with ideas opposing those of the previously ruling country has moved in and enforced the introduction of new laws.

Similar changes are taking place in South East Asia at the moment, the most prominent being in Viet Nam, and have been for the last few years. The formation of Malaysia and the forward urge of Communism has placed this area on the front pages of newspapers for many months now, and a solution to the problem, other than that of war, has not been found. India, another Asian country, though not a new nation, has emerged into international importance in a clash of policies and religion in a number of border disputes with China, Tibet and Pakistan. Many of the large nations are becoming involved with the affairs of these countries and many people fear the result of an international atomic war. Only time will tell the future of the South East Asian countries, but, in the meantime, man is struggling to decide it in advance.

Apart from political movements, the progress of communications has brought about the emergence of many nations. As world-wide travel becomes less expensive, people are learning more about other parts of the world. The result is that the countries which are backward in economical, political, and social standards attempt to model themselves on the larger countries. One way of improving a country's economy is to develop natural resources to a scale where an export - import agreement with other countries is profitable.

Once the small countries are economically stable, the people in them must be educated and introduced to higher standards of living. However, that is when trouble occurs as the people have difficulty in adapting themselves to new customs. It is like teaching a ninety year old, semi-invalid, to dance the twist. Something's got to give!

The prospects facing countries emerging into international recognition seem highly unappealing. However, after a period of turbulent adjustment in which governments are deposed, leaders executed, and people killed in riots, these tiny nations may proudly accept their reward of international recognition in today's world - a world that is full of alarming changes in which a country may collapse economically overnight, and an error in diplomacy between nations may bring about the complete annihilation of life on this planet.

Bruce Graham, 6B.

A Deserted Beach

'Crash, jingle', went the large rolling waves smashing down on the sands of the white coastal bay. The jingling sound was that of the crushed pipis being washed backwards and forwards with the swirling tide. Each wave coming faster and faster towards me lost its powerful look as it crashed down at my feet, and then I felt like the powerful one, and the sea was my kingdom.

"Was My Face Red"

Railway carriages provide a perfect setting for the over-hearing of conversations. In the confined space it is practically impossible to avoid being overheard, and the snatches of talk can be vastly amusing to a lone traveller, relieving the tedium of an all too often traversed route.

I travel by train by preference rather than necessity, for I find the journey relaxing after the hectic rush of preparing copy for the deadline of the newspaper for which I am a reporter.

Tonight I have no company, and with a contented sigh I lean back, close my eyes and prepare to doze. Idly my mind dwells on some of the incidents, amusing and otherwise, which have occurred during my travels .....

Late again! Rushing madly along the platform, I flung open the door and dived into the carriage as the train was chugging out of the station. Breathlessly I picked myself up and apologised to the other two occupants.

"That was a silly thing to do, my boy."

"Yes, I know, sir. This is the last train. I was kept late at the office, and . . . ." I stammered wildly.

The tall, grey-haired, distinguished man patted me kindly.

"Never mind, son, there was no harm done." He resumed his seat next to a dainty, silver-haired lady who smiled in sympathy at my discomfiture.

Feeling extremely foolish, I shrank in my corner, pulled my hat over my eyes in the approved manner of the seasoned reporter and soon was lulled to the borderline of sleep, by their soft murmuring and the clackety-clack of the train's wheels.

For a long time their conversation only reached me as a low murmur, but then suddenly it came as clear as a bell - "George! Do stop fiddling. Nothing can possibly go wrong."

"I can't Alice, I'm worried to death. I had to do all the planning remember. You just came for the ride. I'm nervous; suppose something goes wrong!"

"Really, George! I have no patience with you. We got away perfectly easily. What can possibly go wrong now?"

"Sh! Sh! Don't forget the boy."

"Oh! He's fast asleep. Look, he's on the verge of snoring."

With a supreme effort I controlled my protestations. I don't snore, or do I? I stayed as still as a mouse, my brain working at top speed. The conversation was extremely interesting, and, as I was determined to become a full-blown reporter as quickly as I could, I soon convinced myself that I was on to something big.

"Alice!"

"Yes, George?"

"Do you think he will recognize us? It has been two years, you know".

"I know, but we couldn't do anything in the meantime. It was far too risky. He will recognize us."

"I hope he will accommodate us. I mean it's only short notice."

"He won't let us down, George. He never has and it will be worth his while."

"Alice! Do you think it was right to bring it with us?"

"Relax, George. Of course it was. We'll be able to convince him you are in the clear."

Burglars, of course! In my mind's eye, I could see the big black headlines of my paper - "Daring Theft. Jewel Thieves Again Succeed" - and at the bottom "Police require information concerning tall, distinguished gentleman, and small, well-dressed silver-haired lady believed to be etc. etc."

We were now pulling into my station. I couldn't get off or I might lose them. Peering through half-closed lids, I saw the man rise and lift down two small suitcases off the rack. They were getting off, too, at the same stop. Oh, good! Slowly I stretched as though just awakening, peered out of the window as the train pulled into the station. Goodness, what luck! There on the platform was the local sergeant. If only I could get to him in time. I practically fell out of the carriage. "Sergeant! Sergeant!"

"Well, hello, Jimmy me boy. Been catching any burglars lately?" It was his pet joke. He had known me as a scruffy school-boy and was highly amused when I decided I wanted to be a reporter.

"I'll wipe that silly grin off his face, I thought "Sergeant, I began, and, to my astonishment, the grin was wiped off his face.

"Excuse me, Jimmy. There they are."

I looked round. They were alighting and the sergeant was..... Oh! No! It couldn't be! Not my lovely scoop! Dejectedly I started for the barrier.

"Jimmy! Come here!" yelled the sergeant. "Come and meet my Mum and Dad."

She laughed delightedly. "Why! It's the boy who fell into your carriage and then slept all the way. We so want to live here now, after being abroad so long. We had to go for my husband's health. Alan's been so worried about us. You must come and visit us in our new home sometime, when we are settled in ....."

"New home?" said Alan. "What are you talking about Mum?"

"Oh dear! There I go. I've let the cat out of the bag. Dad's bought a new house and was going to hand you the deeds as a present. He's so afraid you might be upset about it....."

I smiled - so many years ago - well, seven anyway. They are quite the most delightful couple it has been my pleasure to know, and unbelievably kind to an orphan boy. My little lady and distinguished gentleman, I am sure, would thoroughly enjoy the joke, but I somehow have never quite mustered enough courage to tell them this one.

About a Feather

A feather is shaped like the wild fern,
But even more soft and delicate,
Much like a young baby's hair.
The feather is a stranger,
Even as its owner, the unknown bird.
And now it has come down to rest,
And as I stroke it with my fingers,
A memory of a beautiful bird lingers,
One which I knew only in my younger years,
Only in my imagination.

FOURTH FORM PRIZE

The ship was underway and I was still aboard

"Do have a good trip, won't you?" repeated Mum.

"That's the eighth time, Mum, and it's five minutes since we were asked to leave this tub," I murmured in reply.

"Be quiet, Stephen!" was all that was passed back.

I was taking part in the "seeing off" of a brother to Australia, and Mother, as most mothers, was having her say.

"Don't forget to write, will you? And make sure you have a good trip," she repeated

"Ninth time, Mum, and ten minutes since . . . ."

"Will you be quite quiet!" She almost jumped down my throat.

"Blimey, Mum, John's only going to Australia for three weeks, not three years." One up for me.

"Yes, then I suppose we'd better be saying goodbye then, John.

No misbehaving over there and do have a good trip." She was at it again.

"Tenth time and . . . ."

"Be quiet!"

Well, by this time fifteen minutes had elapsed since we had been asked to retire from the ship.

"I've never seen so many stairs and narrow aisles; we've been wandering round here for the last ten minutes," Mum moaned.

"That makes twenty-five minutes since we were told to leave, leaving five before the ship sails".

I dropped this as a casual remark. Mum didn't take it this way.

"Stephen, if you don't shut up, I'll, I'll . . . ."

Well, we finally asked a steward to show us the way out, but even this presented problems for the boat, being Italian, had an Italian crew, and the members could not speak English.

Anyway after a bit more searching I found an exit. But . . . . .

"Oh brother!" I exclaimed.

"What's wrong?" Mother asked.

"Nothing much, Mum, except that the gangway has been taken away. I warned you! But just a sec, while I ask that bloke over there to get us off."

"No luck, Mum. He couldn't speak enough English. They're casting off, or, if you want it any plainer, the ship is underway and we're still aboard."

Now, that was about that! We managed to get a ride ashore in the pilot boat, so finishing our voyage.

THIRD FORM PRIZEThe Race

The race is on, and all other things cease to exist. His mind works, his muscles work, his legs work. At first the countryside may be enlightening, but it soon disappears. For there is nothing in his mind but victory.

Slowly but surely, his senses become dulled; his mind wanders to happier, lazier things, like swimming in cool water, or relaxing on a couch, or just plain eating and drinking. Then he thinks. Will it ever end? The pace is permanent, never ending; it never slows, always relentless.

Then finally, over the last hill, in the distance is the last, long home stretch. His eyes are focussed on the long, thin, white tape, the tape that spells victory, but is still far distant.

Then suddenly the world seems to blur, and the white tape is coming closer. Suddenly it's all over, the final burst achieved his goal. He was the first to break the tape! Now it's all over, he can scarcely remember anything of the race. As he walks away, he is tired, but still exalted by his triumph.

Bon Voyage!

Many years ago British seamen would refuse to sail on a Friday as they believed it to be unlucky.

The government decided to show how stupid this superstition was. They laid the keel of a new vessel on Friday, launched her on Friday, named her H.M.S. Friday, and sent her to sea on Friday.

The plan worked perfectly, except for one thing - neither ship nor crew was ever heard of again.

Portrait of a Famous Man

A small Alsatian village was the birthplace of the famous humanitarian, Dr. Albert Schweitzer. His father, the village pastor, did not earn much money, but the family always ate good, wholesome food and dressed respectably.

During his early years, Schweitzer was very uncertain about his future. While quite young, he promised himself, that, after he reached the age of thirty, he would devote the rest of his life to helping others less fortunate than himself.

He became an author, lecturer, theologian, philosopher, and a world-renowned organist. When he reached the age of thirty, he decided to attend a medical school. Many people thought he was foolish to give up an already successful career at his age and venture to something new.

His new task was not easy, for most of the men were much younger and better prepared than Schweitzer was, and he had to work very hard often studying well into the night.

In 1913, his training completed, he applied for a post as a medical missionary. He was appointed to a post in Lambarene, Gabon.

The last few miles of the journey had to be made in a small rowing boat and, when at last it ended, Schweitzer and his wife were very disappointed. The hospital, which had been promised by the Government, had not even been started.

They set to work and cleaned out an old chicken-house to serve as a dispensary. As soon as some of his equipment and drugs were unpacked, he began fighting the tropical diseases.

Realizing that it was the only answer, Schweitzer began to clear a site for his hospital. His native patients helped him and they were eventually rewarded with a small hospital surrounded by native fruit trees and gardens.

The years passed by; the hospital grew; and Dr. Schweitzer required more and more assistants. He made several trips home to see his wife, who found she could not live in the heat of the tropics. She died in 1957.

He was awarded honorary degrees from Swiss, British, and American Universities and in 1952 was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.

At the age of 90 Dr. Schweitzer died and was buried next to his wife's ashes, in a grave dug by lepers in the grounds of his beloved hospital.

How They Brought the Good News

From Mersey to the World
(with apologies to Browning)

I sprang to the stage and Ringo and he,
I played, Paul played, George played, we three,
"Twist and Shout", cried I, as the girls started to scream,
"Shout", echoed the wall as we moved in a dream,
Behind crashed the drums and the guitars sank to rest,
As into the night we played all abreast.

Not a word to each other, we kept the great pace,
Note by note, song by song, never changing our face,
I turned up my volume and made it sound right,
They shortened their strings and set the drums tight,
Screamed out much much louder, not stumbling a bit,
Played higher and higher till we reached the top hit.

Power

The huge generator shaft begins to rotate, turned by the tremendous pressure of water banking up against the turbine blades. All the water held in the dam, formed by a huge concrete and steel structure spanning the valley, is pressing on the blades, turning them faster and faster, driving the generators, which produce more power for man's use.

More generators are starting now, their great shafts spinning; a tremendously powerful humming sound issues from them.

"More power! More power!" The hum changes to a throbbing pulse as more and more electricity is pumped into the grid for more and more people to use electricity for cooking, running radios and television sets, washing-machines, clothes-dryers, and electricity to heat water.

What a great amount of work this slave of ours does!

Vibrations of a City

On the way to school I pass many interesting places. I pass a factory, a laundry and a number of schools. I catch a No. 4 Zoo-Westmere bus because I go to school in the city. On the bus I can hear the chattering of people and smell the cool fresh air. The chattering in a bus never stops.

In a garage repair shop I can smell gas and grease and hear the banging of hammers. I can hear spanners falling on the floor and the revving of a car engine in a corner of the garage. The grease drips out of the taps and there is a car, high up on a lift, with men underneath. I can smell cigarettes mixed with the smell of different petrols. I feel that I am in a death oven with the tense heat of the blow-torches.

At the supermarket there is the noise of the swing doors closing and the squeaking of wire baskets being wheeled towards the smell of cheese and bacon. I can see the tins of food all along the shelves - the colourful advertisements on the walls. If you aren't looking where you're going and knock a whole pile of tins down, you feel like kicking yourself, because as you look up everyone seems to be staring at you. They usually are.

When you are in a busy street you hear the roar of cars, trucks and motorbikes. Everywhere you go you sense that here there could easily be an accident. You can feel the rush of air as the cars go zooming past - and smell the fumes.

In the hospital it is all so clean. You can hear the nurses pushing trolleys and see them bustling, bustling, while all the time the wardsmasids are cleaning.

The water rushes up the beach and then disappears back into the sea. The whistle of the wind and the sound of a party go well with the salt air.

At the speedway I am caught up in the roar of the engines as they are off. One goes into a skid and I feel like going down there myself. I can smell the tyres, and sense that number five will win. It does, of course.

I am on the wharf at night. I can see the gentle waters, the ships rocking from side to side, people walking along the wharf, warehouses and cranes.

I can see light on a boat and feel lonely. I smell the sea, and suddenly I want to get back to the crowds.

Capital Punishment Should not be Restored

Capital punishment! Oh, how those words resound in one's ears. The mind's eye immediately conjures up a solemn and tragic scene in which the accused is tensely waiting out the last few seconds of his life, before they pull the rope or switch, which will rip the life-providing air from his body.

Why should this be so? What right has one human being to take away the life of another? Is there such a perfect being, someone so infallible that he can condemn another without any qualms or fears of retribution?

In my opinion, capital punishment is a last resort for the people who have been unsuccessful in finding another method which will punish the guilty. If they have reached the stage where they are insensitive to pleas for help and understanding, to requests for intelligent and mature guidance, then they are quite incapable of having an authority vested in them, which gives them the right to terminate another human being's life.

The prisoner should be given a chance to show the better side of his character, and how is he able to do this, if he is hanging from the gallows or strapped to an electric chair? The murder of another being is a heinous crime, but how less guilty of committing that same crime is he who condemns the prisoner to death?

The circumstances under which a person is killed are never the same for two separate cases. Motives, feelings, and other factors must be taken into consideration before judgment is passed. If this were not done, and capital punishment were restored, it would throw the under-world into a state of anarchy, striking fear into the hearts of those who were even contemplating a murder. But what would happen to those who had not premeditated the crime, but had killed accidentally? For instance, a woman trying to defend herself against an attacking thief, strikes him with a heavy object and kills him. Is this woman and others who have killed in similar circumstances, to be grouped with those who have deliberately premeditated the crime?

Those who have been found guilty of murdering another person should be allowed, circumstances permitting, to try to regain their place in society. During the time spent in the penitentiary, they will probably have learnt a trade, and, with this newly-acquired knowledge, they will in many cases, be able to start a new life if they are released. In many prisons there are also school examinations for the illiterate, library work for the academic, kitchen tasks for the practical, sculpturing for the artistic, and craft-making for those with quick minds and hands. All these things will help to give those convicted a better and brighter outlook on life and help them to regain their faith in human nature. This would not be possible if capital punishment were restored.

We say that a person who has committed a murder must be hanged or spend the rest of his life behind bars as a payment of his debt to society, but it is really our society which has, in many cases, forced him to commit the crime for which he must pay. For the prisoners who have premeditated the murder, life imprisonment is a greater punishment than being hanged. The penalty of the long, dragging years which steal away their youth and crush their quick and uncontrollable natures, is a fitting method of punishing these persons. Capital punishment would be too easy and quick for them.

Prisoners, whose lawyers plead that they were not in full possession of their faculties at the time they committed the murder are treated as psychiatric cases and are judged according to the circumstances, but, if capital punishment were restored, they would probably be subjected to the same code of law which condemns the convicted to the gallows.

Under capital punishment, once the rope has been pulled there is no hope for the restoration of the prisoner's state of mind, but, without capital punishment, we might work towards a better type of human being, who, one day, might be released into society. This is why I say that capital punishment should not be returned. It is too final, too irrevocable.

The Merchant of Venice - A Travesty

Once upon a time, a certain man, who wishes to remain anonymous, is struck for moolah. He had a crush on some rich heiress. He approaches his mate, Antony, to ask for a sub. It turns out that this mate's broke, too, at least until his ships, loaded with gold, etc, etc, come home to roost. They won't arrive until too late so Ant bludges from a real-down-and-out money-lender called Shylock a loan of 3,000 buckets. Shylock agreed to do business for the bond of a pound of flesh. Ant passes the buckets over to his buddy who is hoping that the ship will arrive soon. He's not as hopeful as Ant, who loses weight if they don't.

They don't.

The ships go missing and Ant misses out. The greenbacks aren't available so he has to produce a pound of flesh. But !!! - and this is the crafty bit - a certain doll (Portia, I think) comes to the rescue (bugle call). She dresses up as a lawyer and pleads for mercy and then sacks Shylock, whose bloodst suddenly disappears. He seems only too anxious to accept thrice the sum and beat it. No show! Full stop for Shylock. Portia says that he has to take a pound of flesh - no hair, no blood, no fat, no bone. He gets the big push by the Dog of Venice, Ant's ships return, his clobber gets the girl. All is serene.

Study of a Small Technicality

Now here's a little story (the facts have all been found)
Of how the new school, Seddon Tech, sank right beneath the ground.
Some people have a theory, though it isn't really much;
They state that when the rain came, School vanished in the mush.

I don't know why it sank, 'cause that's not my concern,
But I know that one wet weekend Tech went to joint the worms.
I thought we'd miss out English and perhaps a little Trig,
But the Principal said, "No show, boys!" and then began to dig.

The inspectors soon arrived. Oh, what a rotten blow!
We passed them through T4's windows to get them down below.
They said, "It's a disaster zone! Everything is bent!"
Well I don't know ... we're still here; they're the only things that went.

The zoo is straight across the road. That's where our cousins reside,
And we've always been good neighbours - that is until Jamuna died.
What's puzzling many people still is where she's laid to rest;
My opinion is that there's a new hill to the west.

And now that school has disappeared, there's nothing more to see,
Except a mound of dirt where the good school used to be.
You cannot see the prefabs, or even the huge hall.
The only landmarks left are - well - the birds supply them all.

Dawson, Tn5.

It was March the twenty first, 1519.

When the jungle foliage ceased abruptly, I saw it in all its radiant splendour, the sun temple of the Aztecs reaching high into the sky with etchings of pure gold worked into the white, flawless marble.

I stood there humbly admiring its contours, breathing in the spectacle.

Not so Cortez, the great and treacherous Cortez. His greed outweighed his reasons and so the call to arms was given. In a few moments the white could turn to red, the steps could be stained with the blood of scores.

Cortez and his hordes swooped down to meet a band of five hundred hastily-armed Aztecs. The two sides met in an instant battle of sword against flesh. Screams of anguish and of pain brought me back to reality - the Aztecs were my bitter enemies. I rushed in to join the conflict. Blood, warm and sticky blood, spilt over my tunic as I dismembered a head. A strong, agile warrior passed a spear through my thigh before he fell with the others.

It was all over except for a few skirmishes. Some priests in the high-est pinnacles were swiftly taken care of.

All the gold was stripped off the fabulous building until the Spanish soldiers came to a huge, solid disc of gold representing the sun. It was a foot thick and twelve feet high, and worth over 80,000,000 pesetas.

Fate had the last hand since the disc was too heavy, too cumbersome, and too hot from the tropical sun for Cortez to carry off.

The Talent Quest

We practised through the Summer months, we practised through the fall;
We told ourselves we'd win the quest with no-one's help at all.
We polished up our voices and we varnished our guitars,
Imagining that in the end we three would be the stars.

Mary and Christeen sang down low, and Janice sang up high
But gasping, squeaking, always came, no matter how we'd try.
However, when we sang our song, we must have sounded hot,
For, when the judge announced the names, we'd made the final lot.

The night arrived and so did we - misfortune to behold -
One of our number was in bed, with of all things - a cold!
We stood alone, the two of us, and waited for our cue;
The music struck but we were dumb, our lips seemed sealed with glue.

We sang our song and did our best and we were really proud,
As we looked out there off the stage at Tech's great smiling crowd,
We really sang with great gusto and did our very best,
And, though we didn't win this year, we'll be at next Year's quest.

Afternoon Among the Reef Dwellers

On Monday September 20, 5A and 5B made a field trip to study the lava reef and the tidal estuaries of Meola and Motions Creeks.

The day was wet and windy and there was much speculation on the part of the two supervising teachers as to the wisdom of proceeding. But at last the two classes started on their expedition, the object being to find and study the plant and animal life of the reef and estuaries.

At Meola Creek they stopped to observe the mangroves growing there. These trees put out aerial roots for respiration as the mud they live in is poorly aerated. To their surprise they learned that these trees were useful in changing useless mudflats into good land.

On the reef the girls, in small groups, searched the rock pools and water-line for animals and plants. It was a case of 'bottoms-up' as they all bent to the task. Some common plants here were tough, wiry sea rushes and a stunted, jointed plant called Salicornia which grew in cracks in the rocks.

In the rock pools there was much interesting sea-life. Sea grasses and sea-weed were predominant but smaller creatures such as sea anemones, chitons, limpets, crabs and worms also lived there. Most of these animals and plants form food chains which start with microscopic plankton on which smaller fish feed. The larger fish feed on them and consequently man himself ends the chain.

After about two and a half hours on the reef the girls brought their finds back to school for more detailed study. For instance they studied the difficulties of this type of society. The plants and animals must be able to go on living under the influence of weather, tides being at different times and heights during the day, and being exposed to extremes of heat and coldness when the tide is out.

The final count revealed that apart from a few aching joints and stiff backs the girls had all come back safely. There had been none of those minor incidents such as people being left behind and over-inquisitive girls falling in the tide. An informative time was had by all!

The Pacific Islands

Perhaps some of you might have been in the Pacific Islands but some mightn't have. There are 15 islands in the Cook Islands alone. These and other islands like Fiji, Tahiti, New Caledonia, Tonga, Samoa, make up the Pacific Islands.

Rarotonga is the principal island of the Cook Group, although there are other islands in the Group that are bigger. As I come from Rarotonga, I know much more about it than the other islands, whose names I can't even remember.

I think Rarotonga is a Paradise and I thank God for putting me there instead of Viet Nam! You don't need money to get along because you always go to your relatives or neighbours if you need anything badly enough. Most of the time people spend planting crops like taro which is a common food there. Early in the morning at about 7 a.m. you have your breakfast, clean the house and go anywhere you like. You can either go up in the hills or plant taro in muddy fields. I enjoy doing the work. We have a meal at noon, and, about 4 p.m. when the day's work is done, everybody returns home. The next morning the same things happen again.

During the orange-picking season everybody is very busy. Oranges are the main product of the island. A few people don't have orange orchards, but most of them do. Everybody has to get boxes for the oranges from the packing shed. There are about 100 oranges in a box, and people with many orange trees usually harvest about 300 to 400 boxes.

Usually when the boxes arrive home, the children enjoy themselves building houses and playing with them. The picking goes on for about three days, and trucks come around to take the boxes back to the packing shed for inspection and stamping. Then they are loaded on to the ship. The oranges that are not suitable for export are taken to the cooler and crushed to get the juice. This is how 'Raro' orange juice is made, but, of course, the juice has to go through a lot of boiling and straining before it is tinned.

These are the usual happenings in the islands, but in spite of work people don't tire themselves and you can always look forward to a quiet evening or go to dances and pictures. There is no T. V. of course. Every evening my sisters and I enjoy listening to old tales of the island, and I wouldn't wish for more.

The Swamp

The swamp, to some, might have been dismal and cold, but to me there in the early morning, a more beautiful sight could never have existed. There I sat, in silent contemplation in a small flat-bottomed punt in that shadowy lane, nestled quietly among the reeds and carpeted with deep, green weed. In the distance I could hear the muffled quack of a duck, and there, not a hundred feet from me, the haunting boom of a foraging bittern, supplemented by a background of early risers.

The sun crept over the eastern hills at last, causing the frost to sparkle and glisten on the slopes. The wraith-like wisps of mist danced across the open patches of water, gradually diminishing in size until seemingly absorbed into the weed and rushes.

Shortly the steam began to rise from every nook and cranny; this was the signal for the game to be in the air. The ducks, the geese, the swans, birds of all shapes and sizes, going somewhere, honking, mewling, croaking - even the formerly dispassionate thrushes - burst out in life of all description.

Then, from far down the valley, I heard the faint boom of a gun. Glancing at my own, still untouched on the seat, I wondered at the ignorance of this imbecile who dared attempt such sacrilege. Was he so obtuse? Did he not feel the power, the enchantment of such a scene?

M. Moore, P5.

Fire at Mt. Eden

I placed my gun on the old wooden table that was shoved in the middle of the room, and I slowly walked to the huge cell door. George, Rino, Hughy, Fat, and I had all been shifted from Block Two to Block One. They said we made too much noise, but then that was the whole idea. George came towards me.

"Not yet!" he hissed. "It's only half past one. You want to muck everything up?" I shook my head as if to say no.

"I must have dreamt I heard the alarm," I whispered, looking at my watch.

"Yeah! A pretty lame excuse," said George, and he pushed me against the wall. "You sure you're not trying to back out?" he asked, looking at me fiercely.

"Of course not, George," I said. I was so terrified that my teeth chattered. George could be a bit of a bully sometimes and wouldn't think twice about putting a knife through your back. "Anyway, why should I want to back out? It was me who thought of it in the first place. Remember?"

"Come on, let's have a smoke," said George. "I sure could do with one. I suppose I shouldn't be such an old bite. But anyway, nothing could go wrong now, eh?"

"That's right, Boss," I agreed, lighting my last cigarette.

George and I sat and played poker until the alarm rang. It was two o'clock.

"Now's the time," I thought. I felt a tingle going up my spine as I walked slowly towards the door for the second time that morning. When I reached the door knob, the tingle ran all the way down my spine again. Then things began to happen. Rino set the place on fire and there were men rushing everywhere.

"They've all gone mad," I thought. I was so bewildered I couldn't move. ESCAPE! ESCAPE! - these words ran through my mind.

"Come on! Get out!" George shouted, giving me a push. Then like the others I seemed to go mad. Rushing around unlocking other prisoners, all I could think of was to get free and return home to my wife and children. The whole prison was burning madly by now. Smoke choked me as I unlocked the last heavy, steel door. The men came rushing out and began to do their part in our well thought out scheme.

"It won't fit! The key won't fit!" Sam was shouting as I rushed headlong down to the basement. Sam was going hysterical. He was screaming and shouting.

"Poor old Sam," I said, realizing what this meant. "He wanted so much to get out of this terrible place. So did we all." I walked slowly toward George.

"What do we do now, Boss?" I asked.

"You lot keep the cops off with this," he said shoving his gun into my hand. "We'll try and force the door."

Well, we were soon defeated. We had to get out into the yard or else burn to death. There wasn't much shelter and it was bitterly cold there. We hadn't had a thing to eat since the night before. The rain poured down for hours.

Alas, we were forced to surrender.

"Maybe another three years," George said, as we were being shifted to our new quarters. "Maybe even longer."

A Seagull at Sea

High up in the sky
A large white object
Flies steadily and smoothly.
It is a sea gull.
Its wings are stretched
Out on both sides.

From the ground you can
Hear him singing away.
Suddenly you see him
Dive.
What has he found?
You wonder.

Then a while later you
See him zoom high in
The sky again.
He has caught a fish.

An Unexplored Beach

As I walked along the crowded beach, I noticed people up to all sorts of things. They were building sandcastles, splashing in the water, having sandfights, while small children run about exploring rocks. To their amazement, small crabs would run out in disgust.

As I walked along, I stepped over rocks, until I finally came to the deserted beach. The sea-gulls were the only living things that I could see, and the water echoed in the caves as it hit the rocks. It was a windy day and the sun would keep peeping from the clouds. As I ran through the sand, small crabs would pop their heads from under the rocks. I lifted up interesting pieces of wood and turned over small shells which seemed to sparkle in the sun.

The cave seemed to draw me near and I adventurously stepped into it. It seemed like a deserted tomb. More crabs were playing about and there were also small sea animals, which squirted water at me as I walked past. I then discovered some giant spiders which had safely lodged themselves in a dry part of the cave.

Running outside, I was glad to be in the sun. Something caught by eye and, when I picked it up, it was a small clay pipe which had been washed clean by the sea. When I looked at it, I discovered that it was initialled 'Scotland, 1914'. With pride I took it home and put it on a shelf, where it still lies in memory of my adventure on the unexplored beach.

The Day We Bought Our Telly Set

"Gosh! Why doesn't this stupid school hurry up and finish?" I kept on saying to myself as time dragged on slowly. I thought of our new "Telly Set" all the time while different teachers were teaching my class. I got told off many times for not knowing what to do because I just could not put my mind on anything else that day but our new "Telly Set." I guess now that I should have wagged school that day to save all the trouble I got!

At last the home time bell rang and I became so excited that I jumped up in the room, forgetting all about the teacher, who was telling the girls to put on their berets. As I jumped up, I let out a loud yell, "Yippee! Home time at last! Make way for me! I want to touch that television set to make sure I'm not dreaming." I realised what I had said when all the girls laughed, and the teacher gave me a "You asked for it" look. I knew then what was coming to me. I had to say something, so I just said in an astonished voice, "Oh no!" instead of apologizing to the teacher.

"You may go now, girls," the teacher said, then looked at me quickly and added, "But not you! You stay behind with me." I looked at the girls' backs as they marched out of the room.

I didn't know what to say to the teacher because she was looking at me. At first I was nearly bursting with anger but, instead, I burst into tears.

"Now, now," she told me, "you know it's no use crying, but if you can tell my why you've acted the goat today, I might think of letting you go."

I stopped crying before she had finished and blurted out about how I was so looking forward to seeing our new television set.

She asked me many other questions after I'd told her all about the cause of my strange behaviour, but I only remember when she said, "All right, you can go."

I thanked her quickly and ran out the door, and ran all the way to the bus stop.

That night I watched every single programme which came on the television set.

Siale Tuiniue, 5B.

Fear

The night was cold and windy; rain moved across the darkness like a cold blanket; lightning flashed and flickered, and then a roar of thunder split the air.

I was cold and miserable, wanting to find shelter. Then a house appeared up ahead, silhouetted in the sky that was flashing with the lightning. It was dark and gloomy, and had a smell of old wood and rotten food, and a sound of creaking wood.

Shutters moved; boards moved. And then it started to rain! I went inside.

It was dark. I lit a match; a form lay in a chair. It had a face of shock and horror. I was petrified - stuck to the spot; unable to move. Then a shadow moved across the room, a shadow of ghastly uncanny horror. I backed up; it came towards me. I threw a bottle at it; still it came on. Oh! My match had burnt out - I panicked, I was covered, trapped.

I turned. Then a bolt of lightning lit up the room. His face was that of a dead man, pale and blue. I couldn't do anything but fight or die.

I grabbed his arm. Then it happened. My hand clutched nothing. All that remained was a shadow.

John Hylton, E4B.

Pegasus

There, I see it once again -
Or am I just imagining things?
A golden horse with silver mane
And pulsing silver wings.

Soaring up into the sky
And prancing there among the clouds,
Rising up so very high
With a saddle made of misty shrouds.

I know I'm just imagining things!
The horse with silver mane and wings,
The gentle horse which seems so tame,
Is really just an aeroplane!

Phillippa Scott, 3A.
